BATSON Can TACKLE Any Textile Need!

For over 50 years, Batson Yarn and Fabrics Machinery Group, Inc., has provided capital equipment, machinery parts and technical service consultation to the textile industry.

We proudly offer the following top quality products:

- Alexco: Off-loom take-ups, fabric inspection equipment and gonnies.
- Batson: Material handling equipment.
- Biella Shrink Process: Dry finishing equipment for woolen/worsted fabrics and synthetics.
- BRD: Noise control systems, including sound enclosures.
- Corghi: Cone to cone, hank to cone winders, dewinders and knit yarn recovery machinery.
- DMP: Waste water treatment systems.
- Dornier: Rigid rapier weaving machinery with patented, positively controlled filling transfer, dobby or jacquard motion; air-jet weaving for high quality fabrics; through air dryers, thermal bonding; and knit finishing machines - EcoFix®, EcoSqueeze® and EcoCombine®.
- Fehrer: Nonwoven, web forming, and needle punch machinery.
- Flenco: Oil and grease lubrication systems.
- Greased Lightning: High performance cleaner and degreaser.
- Jenkins: Waste briquetting machinery, Roto-Clean fans.
- Keith® Manufacturing: Walking Floor®, unloading and conveying systems.
- Knotex: Worp tying equipment, including computer-controlled machinery, drowing-in systems and frames.
- Lemaire: Transfer printing systems for warp yarn and fabrics and decorative lamination systems.
- Malcam: Moisture measurement equipment for packages, bales, modules and containers.
- NANOsystems: Intelligent camera systems for edge guiding/trimming systems for simple and complex fabric inspection.
- Nordson: Hot melt and melt blown for coating and web forming machines.
- Parex-Mather: Singeing range vacuum saturation machines, compressive shrinkage machines for textile finishing.
- RF Systems: Radio frequency ovens for hanks, cones, fabric and nonwovens.
- Recomo: Standard application and complex coating systems.
- Rolando: Textile waste recycling systems for yarn, fabric, fiber, nonwovens and carpet.
- Smart Machines: Ovens, slitters, entry/exit doffing for needle looms, accumulators.
- Temafa: Fiber opening and blending systems for carpet, nonwovens, woolen/worsted and spinning.
- VTA: Sectional warping, direct warping and warping creels.
- Welker: Yarn conditioning and steaming systems.
- William Tatham: Carding and crosslapping systems for synthetics, wools, nonwovens and sliver knitting.

Dantzler Breaks Two Records in Season Opener

Clemson's offense broke 26 school records last year. The unit is off to another record breaking season in 2000. Quarterback Woodrow Dantzler broke two marks for passing excellence. The junior who was making his sixth career start at quarterback, connected on an incredible 16 of 17 passes for 192 yards and three touchdowns. He did not throw an interception.

Dantzler's .941 completion percentage broke a 41-year old Clemson record. The previous best was a 90 percent turned in by Harvey White against South Carolina (9-10) in 1959. Dantzler also broke the Clemson record for passing efficiency given a minimum of 15 attempts. We use 15 attempts because that is the number the NCAA uses when computing passing efficiency records.

Dantzler's efficiency rating was 247.1 for the game, breaking the previous best of 240.4 by Jimmy Addison against Virginia in 1966. Ironically, that game in 1966 was the first game in which Howard's Rock was present in Death Valley. Saturday night was the first game for the new display that holds Howard's Rock at the top of the East endzone grass bank.

Dantzler completed three touchdown passes in the game all in the first half. It marked the first time in his career that Dantzler had completed three touchdowns in one game, never mind a half. He also gained 44 yards rushing in 12 attempts, giving him 236 yards of total offense on the day. The native of Orangeburg is already in the top 25 in Clemson history in total offense.

Clemson 30-0-1 With 200 Yards Passing and Rushing

Clemson gained 236 yards rushing and 222 passing in the win over The Citadel in the season opener. That kind of balance, in particular gaining at least 200 yards rushing and 200 yards passing in the same game, means a Clemson victory. In history, Clemson has a 30-0-1 record when it has at least 200 yards of each.

Clemson had three such games last year, wins over North Carolina, Maryland and Duke. That means Clemson has had four games of at least 200 yards of each in the 13 games Tommy Bowden has coached at Clemson. The program had just 28 such games in the first 103 years of Clemson football prior to Bowden's arrival.

The streak was nearly snapped last year at Georgia Tech. Clemson had 231 yards rushing and 197 passing in the loss at Georgia Tech last year. The only tie game in which Clemson had at least 200 of each took place in 1976 when Clemson had 248 rushing and 234 passing in a 24-24 tie in Atlanta against Tech.

Clemson Defense Posts Shutout

We don't have to look at the NCAA stats to know Clemson leads the NCAA in scoring defense. The Tigers did not allow a point in the 38-0 victory over The Citadel. That was Clemson's first shutout since 1998 when Clemson defeated Furman, 33-0. Clemson's best scoring defense of 1999 was a 12-3 win over Wake Forest.

Clemson was also stingy when it came to total offense against The Citadel. Reggie Herring's point prevention unit allowed just 105 yards, 57 rushing and 48 passing. That was the best total defense performance by Clemson since the 1994 Furman game when the Tigers allowed just 99, -3 rushing and 102 passing. That was actually Herring's first game as an assistant coach in Death Valley.

Clemson's performance in Death Valley last Saturday was the seventh best by a Tiger defense in the last 25 years. The best effort during that time took place against Long Beach State in 1990, Ken Hatfield's first game as Clemson head coach. The 49ers were coached that day by NFL legend George Allen.

In case you were wondering, the Clemson record for total defense in a single game took place in 1948 when Clemson held Furman to -12 yards total offense (-17 rushing, 5 passing) in a 41-0 victory. The 57 yards allowed against Long Beach State in 1990 ranks tied for sixth best in school history, best since 1963. Five times in the last 25 years Clemson's defense has held the opposition under 100 yards.

Clemson vs. The Big 12

Clemson has a 4-7 record against teams currently from the Big 12 Conference. Five of the 11 previous meetings have taken place in bowl games, including Clemson's 22-15 victory over Nebraska in the 1982 Orange Bowl, Dantzler broke two Clemson records with his 16-17 passing performance against The Citadel.

a victory that earned Clemson the National Championship.

Really, three of Clemson's four wins over Big 12 teams must be considered among the schools top victories of all time. The aforementioned victory over Nebraska, not only gave Clemson the National Championship, but it is still tied for the highest ranked team Clemson has ever beaten (4th).

The 24-23 triumph over Missouri gave Frank Howard's team a perfect 11-0 record, Clemson's first undefeated season since 1903. The 1989 Citrus Bowl win over Oklahoma gave Danny Ford's team a 10-2 record and a number-nine final ranking in the AP poll. Clemson was one of just a handful of schools nationally to defeat Oklahoma and Nebraska in the decade of the 1980s. Clemson, Nebraska and Oklahoma were all among the top six winningest programs in the nation in that decade.

As you can see by the chart below, when Clemson has played against teams from the Big 12 Conference they have not been competing against also-rans. Eight of the previous 11 occasions Clemson has played a Big 12 team, the opponent has been ranked in the top 20 in the nation. Five of those have been against Top 10 teams.

This won't be Clemson's last game against this fine conference. Clemson will meet Texas A&M in 2004 and 2005.

Junior Defenders on Display

Saturday's Clemson vs. Missouri game should feature two of the top junior defensive players in the nation, Clemson's Keith Adams and Missouri's Justin Smith. Both are undersized by today's standards for their position, but they combine quickness and strength to get the job done at an amazing level of proficiency.

Adams is ranked as the top linebacker in the nation, regardless of class, by many 2000 preseason publications and analysts. This week he was featured in Sports Illustrated and Football News and a profile in ESPN The Magazine is also due out shortly.

Adams led the nation in tackles last year with 186, ranked first in tackles for loss with an ACC record 35 and ranked second in sacks with 16. The junior came out of nowhere last year, as he had played just 176 snaps in 1998, then made 176 regular season tackles in 1999. Adams has football and sports in general in his blood. His father, Julius Adams played as a defensive lineman in the NFL from 1971-87, playing an incredible 206 games, still among the all-time leaders in New England Patriots history. Adams mother, Pat, was a track star at Texas Southern.

Unlike Adams, Smith has been a starter at Missouri since Day one. He has played 23 consecutive games, all as a starter, and is nearing the 200-tackle mark for his career, quite an accomplishment for a defensive lineman. Like Adams, he holds his school's single season record for sacks. He had eight last year to tie the mark held by among other former Kansas City Chiefs great Bobby Bell, who played at Missouri in the 1960s.

A first-team all-conference player last year, Smith is likened to San Diego Chargers great Junior Seau, who played for Coach Larry Smith at Southern Cal. The Missouri media guide lists Smith as an athlete who runs the 40 in 4.5, has a 30.5 inch vertical jump and a school record 485 pound power clean. A year ago he had 92 tackles, including 16 tackles for loss.

Smith and Adams were the only two sophomores on the Bronco Nagurski Award Watch list at the end of last season and they are on the preseason list for the National Defensive Player of the Year Award in 2000.

Carson Registers 18 Tackles

There were many heroes in Clemson's defensive performance against The Citadel. But, one linebacker certainly stood out. Chad Carson had a career high 18 tackles, eight first hits and 10 assists in the shutout of the Bulldogs. Carson now has 34 tackles in his last two games and has been Clemson's top tackler each of the last two games. He had 16 in the Mississippi State game in the Peach Bowl to close the 1999 season.

Carson had 144 tackles last year, the 10th highest single season total in Clemson history. But, it was still 42 fewer than Keith Adams recorded when he led the nation in tackles. Carson and Adams, who used to tackle each other when they went both ways for their respective high schools in the Atlanta area, give Clemson a great combination as inside and outside linebackers. Adams was a first-team All-American last year as a sophomore, while Carson, a biology major with a 3.9 GPA, was a second-team Academic All-American.

Missouri Update

Missouri opened its season with a 50-20 win over Western Illinois on September 2 in Columbia, MO. Missouri gained just 303 yards of total offense, a low figure for 50 points scored, but there were reasons. The Tigers returned an interception for a touchdown and reaped the benefits of three punting situations misplays by Western Illinois.

The Missouri offense was led by Kirk Farmer, who completed 10-22 passes for 152 yards and two touchdowns. The sophomore from Jefferson City, MO was making his first appearance since he broke his leg last year in the sixth game of the season. The first-team Academic All-Big 12 selection completed 36-78 passes for 513 yards and nine touchdowns last year. He threw for 182 yards against Colorado, his high mark for the year.

Zain Gilmore was the top rusher for Missouri in the opener with 53 yards rushing in 13 attempts and he scored two touchdowns. John Dausman was the top receiver with 4-67, but three other Missouri players, Justin Gage, Dwayne Blakley and Brandon Ford, caught touchdown passes. Clemson's secondary will be tested by the Missouri Tigers this weekend.

Like Clemson, Missouri was outstanding on defense in the season opener. Western Illinois had -48 yards rushing, as the Tigers had 18 tackles behind the line of scrimmage for the game. The defense also forced three fumbles and scored a pair of touchdowns. In addition to the aforementioned Smith, Missouri features inside linebacker Jamonte Robinson, and guard Cedric Harden. Robinson had double figures in tackles in the opener. He had 108 tackles last year, including 12 behind the line of scrimmage.

Julian Jones is another outstanding defensive player. The free safety from Midwest City, OK scored his first career interception return for a touchdown, a 49-yard return for score in the fourth period. It was his ninth forced turnover of his career.

Missouri is outstanding when it comes to special teams. The Tigers blocked two punts against Western Michigan and a third snap went over the Leatherjack punter's head, leading to a safety for Missouri.

Clemson vs. Missouri Series

Clemson holds a 2-1 advantage in the series with the Missouri Tigers. This will be the fourth meeting between the two schools, but the first time Missouri has come to Death Valley. The first game of the series was played in the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, FL on January 1, 1949. The second game was played in Columbia, MO on September 30, 1950, and the third game was played just four years ago, on September 21, 1996 in Columbia, MO.

Missouri was a common opponent for two Clemson undefeated seasons within a three-year period, the only time in Clemson history that has been done. Clemson's 1948 team completed an undefeated season with a 24-23 win over Missouri in the Gator Bowl, and the 1950 team gained its second victory in a 9-0-1 season with a 34-0 triumph over Missouri.

Carson had a career high 18 tackles in just 41 plays against The Citadel.

The Tigers took the opening kickoff of the second half of the 1949 Gator Bowl and drove 80 yards for a score. Bobby Gage had two long runs in the drive and the Tigers were fortunate on one play. Gage threw a pass to John Poulos, who lateraled the ball to Mathews. Mathews fumbled the pitch, but it fell back in the arms of Poulos, allowing Clemson to keep possession. Gage then threw a touchdown pass to Poulos and the Tigers had a 21-14 lead.

After a safety brought Missouri to within 21-16, the Clemson Tigers drove for a clinching drive. A Bobby Gage to Oscar Thompson pass for 12 yards on a third-and-seven from the Missouri 38 was a key play in the drive. The drive stalled on the Missouri 15. On fourth-and 10, Frank Howard called on Jack Miller to boot a 32-yard field goal. The boot, the only successful field goal of the entire 1948 season, was good with 8:40 left in the game.

Clemson held Missouri and got the ball back with over four minutes left. Thanks to the running of Fred Cone, the Tigers were able to run out the clock. The key play on the last possession was a fourth-and one from the Clemson 38. Cone gained three yards on the play that started with just a couple of minutes left, and Clemson could celebrate its first perfect season in 48 years.

Clemson was dominant offensively in the 1950 game at Missouri. The Tigers gained 420 yards on the ground in just 57 attempts. Clemson had three backs over 100 yards in the game, the second straight week it had happened. The Tigers have had three 100-yard rushers in the same game just four times in history. Jackie Calvert led the way with 175 yards, including an 81-yard run for a score on the first possession of the game. Ray Mathews added 120 yards, while Cone had 111 yards rushing and two touchdowns.

Today's Game

Clemson scored in every quarter and held Missouri to 239 yards total offense. Clemson ended the game with 525 yards of total offense. Missouri was ranked 18th in the AP preseason poll that year. The victory moved Clemson from unranked to 18th the following week. Clemson ended the season ranked 10th in the final poll after a 15-14 win over Miami (FL) in the Orange Bowl.

Clemson's 1996 team won seven games and advanced to a bowl game under Coach Tommy West, but a Missouri player named West (Devin), gave the Tigers problems that year, leading his team to a 38-24 victory. Missouri's West rushed for 98 yards in just 13 attempts and a touchdown, leading the Missouri Tigers to 292 yards rushing and the 14-point victory. The rushing total was the most given up by Clemson in 11 years. West went on to become a first-team All-American in 1998. The 1996 victory over Clemson propelled Missouri to a pair of bowl seasons and 15 total wins in 1997 and 1998.

Missouri gained 445 yards of total offense against a Clemson defense that featured future first-round draft choices Trevor Pryce (Denver Broncos), Antwan Edwards (Green Bay Packers) and Anthony Simmons (Seattle Seahawks). Clemson also had then freshman Rahim Abdullah, a second round pick and current starter for the Cleveland Browns. Overall, that Clemson team had 11 players who would go on to play in the NFL.

The only current Tiger who played against Missouri in 1996 is Justin Watts, who was a first-year freshman wide receiver in the game. Clemson's leading rusher that day was Raymond Priester, who gained 22-81 and scored the first touchdown of the game. Clemson was led through the air by Nealon Greene, who completed 11-18 passes for 160 and also rushed for 52 more, giving him 212 yards of total offense.

Clemson and Missouri Similarities

While Clemson and Missouri are over 1000 miles apart they do have some items in common. And, we mean more than just the obvious Tigers nickname. Both programs have a stadium named Memorial, and both of those facilities have been involved in refurbishing projects. Missouri's started in 1997 and included a new press box and the addition of brick and iron fencing around the outside. Clemson Memorial Stadium is in the middle of a multi-year refurbishing that includes the addition of a new brick and wrought iron fencing.

Both programs feature a legendary former head coach as the rock of its tradition. In fact, they were good friends. Frank Howard and Don Faurot met in the 1949 Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, a 24-23 Clemson victory that Howard called among his most memorable games. In retirement they served as recruiters for the annual Blue-Gray College All-Star Game. Howard recruited for the South team and Faurot for the North. Ironically, they both died of congestive heart failure just three months apart.

Both coaches were actually involved in the laying of the original sod on the fields now named in their honor. Faurot was a Missouri graduate assistant coach in 1926 and helped lay the sod that is now Faurot Field. Howard supervised the laying of the sod at Death Valley in 1942.

There are many similarities from a historical standpoint, as the chart below shows. Clemson has 203 wins in its Memorial Stadium, while Missouri has 204. Clemson has been to 23 bowl games, Missouri to 21. Perhaps the most unusual bit of history involves each program's success in games played at Notre Dame, the winningest program in college history. Clemson is 1-0 in South Bend and Missouri is 2-0. Clemson and Missouri are the only two schools in Division I with winning records in Notre Dame Stadium against the Irish.

There are even similarities when it comes to academics. Both schools boast a #1 ranking academically. Clemson was recently named the #1 public University for 2000 by Time Magazine. Missouri was the top academic buy in the nation in 1999 by US News and World Report.

Both Coaches Got Head Coaching Start at Tulane

There is a common school in the coaching history of both head coaches in Saturday's game. Both Tommy Bowden and Larry Smith got their first Division I head coaching position at Tulane University. In fact, some of the accomplishments made by Bowden in 1997-98 were firsts for the Green Wave Program since Smith served there from 1976-79.

Smith, who is in his seventh year at Missouri, began his head coaching experience at Tulane in 1976. He led the Green Wave to a 9-3 record in 1979 and a berth in the Liberty Bowl, where they narrowly lost to a strong Penn State team, 9-6. Tommy Bowden made Tulane his first head coaching position in 1997, and he led the Green Wave to an 11-0 regular season and top 10 ranking in 1998. It was the most wins and first top 15 ranking for the Green Wave since 1979, when Smith was the head coach.

Smith was the Coach of the Year in the Big 12 in 1997 when he took the Tigers to an 8-4 record and a bowl bid. Bowden was the Coach of the Year in Conference USA at Tulane in 1998, then again at Clemson last year.

Justin Watts

By Samantha Carruth
Clemson Sports Information

Senior wide receiver Justin Watts has the chance this year to become the first Tiger player since 1919 and only the second player in Clemson history to earn five letters in his career. Despite gaining a medical redshirt in 1997, he still earned a letter, allowing him to accomplish the rare feat of five letters.

Watts has had to overcome a lot of adversity in his career with several injuries, including one that forced him to miss nearly the entire 1997 season. To help him in these trying times, he turned to his role models.

With two solid role models throughout his football career, Justin has not only gained a better understanding of football, but also a better understanding of life.

With the guidance of his father and Clemson wide receivers coach Rick Stockstill, Watts plans to pursue a career in college coaching after his playing days are over.

"Coaching is all I have ever wanted to do and I feel I have experienced and witnessed the positives and negatives of coaching," Watts said.

After this season, he hopes to obtain a graduate assistant position at Clemson or at another school in the Southeast and work his way up into a full-time coaching position.

Watts' passion for football was a foregone conclusion considering the family in which he was born.

"I have always been around football. Everything about our family revolves around football. When we sit down at the dinner table, my dad and I discuss defenses, not politics like other families," Watts said.

Watts' father is the athletic director and head football coach at South Florence High School. The time and effort that his dad put into coaching was witnessed by Watts, which has enabled him to understand the intricacies of the coaching profession. Watts had the advantage of having not only a father-son relationship, but also a coach-player relationship with his father.

"It is sometimes hard to draw the line between the two, but it is something other high school players don't have," said the younger Watts, who hopes to model his life after his father.

"My dad has taught me a lot of things I need to know about life, including balancing time between football and family. If there is one person in my life I could be like it would be my father."

Growing up in a football family, Watts was exposed to football at a young age. By the time he could walk he was going to practice with his father, who has been in coaching for 24 years.

During elementary school Watts would ride the bus after school and instead of being dropped off at his house, he was dropped off at the practice field with his dad.

"I would put on my pads and run around with the older guys, but I couldn't do too much because I wasn't old enough or big enough."

Watts, who went on to become a SuperPrep All-American, decided to attend Clemson after narrowing his college choices to Clemson, South Carolina, N.C. State and Air Force.

"Clemson has a family atmosphere and everyone treats you great. You get a great education and you get to play in front of 86,000 people. Once you see a player run down the Hill and after you experience it, it is hard not to want to be a Tiger," Watts said.

Throughout Watts' life he was groomed to be a quarterback. He was ranked as the 17th best quarterback in the nation by SuperPrep his senior year. After arriving at Clemson his freshmen year he asked the coaches if he could change positions because there were three quarterbacks ahead of him.

"After discussing the position change with my dad, I felt I could make an impact on the team right away as a freshman. I miss playing quarterback, but I benefit the team more at receiver."

In the 10th game of Watts' freshman season, he tore his anterior cruciate ligament (ACL). During Christmas break he had surgery and was out for six months.

"I was really down during that time. It was the hardest thing I have ever been through and I didn't realize how it was going to affect me," Watts said.

The next year after hard training and rehabilitation, Watts returned to full speed. But in the third game of the season against Florida State he went to make a block and felt something come loose in the same knee that was injured the previous year. He told himself after his first knee injury that if it happened again he would quit football.

"I actually thought about it and talked to my parents about it. My mom and dad gave me the option to do what I wanted, but encouraged me to stick with it." After his second ACL injury Watts realized the impact his family had on him. "They reminded me to stay strong and make the right decision."

Since arriving at Clemson, Watts has had six knee surgeries. "It is a hard process to go through. Every day you go to practice you are reminded of it. It dictates what you can and cannot do," Watts said.

Despite the injuries, Watts is a veteran of 37 games, more than any current Tiger. He can tie the Clemson record for games played if he plays in 12 games in 2000, assuming Clemson plays in a bowl game. He had also been in on 1,111 career plays, sixth most on the team entering this year.

Watts has given the Tigers a possession receiver who has come through with some critical catches, including a leaping 35-yard catch last year against Virginia. He also made a spectacular leaping catch against Florida State in 1997 for 27 yards and finished the game with 56 yards on three receptions.

Stockstill, who has coached Watts throughout his Tiger career, notes his tireless work ethic and never-say-die attitude on the field.

"I have really enjoyed coaching Justin," Stockstill said. "He is the epitome of what a football player is and should be. He is a great team player and I have a ton of respect for him. He has represented Clemson University and the football program well the last five years and Clemson people should be proud of what he stands for."

Coach Stockstill is a big reason Watts chose to pursue college coaching. While coaching Watts in football, he has also instilled knowledge about life.

"Coach Stockstill has not only been here for me the last five years, but for every player that comes into the Clemson family. He has taught me tons about football, but more about life. I want to be able to coach the way he does and help kids the same way he has."

"There is no doubt in my mind that he will be a successful coach," Stockstill said. "He will be a good coach because he cares about the game and he will care about the people he coaches."

Watts plans on graduating in December with a degree in PRTM with an emphasis in Sport Management.

With role models like his father and Coach Stockstill, Watts possesses all the qualities needed to be a successful college coach. His determination and understanding of the coaching profession will allow him to touch the lives of others like his role models have touched his.

Rod Gardner

By Jacob Barker
Clemson Sports Information

In 1996, after a stellar career as a quarterback at Raines High School in Jacksonville, Florida, a headline about Rod Gardner's commitment to Clemson in the Greenville News read: "Florida QB picks Clemson."

Today, after four years of hard work in the weight room and on the practice field, the senior Gardner is the first single season 1,000-yard receiver in Clemson history and is the top returning receiver in the ACC. Not a bad career for someone who has only played receiver for three years and who came to Clemson with the hopes of playing quarterback.

As a quarterback at Raines, Gardner passed for 1,200 yards, rushed for 700 yards, and accounted for 40 touchdowns during his final two seasons. As a senior, he was ranked as the seventh-best athlete in the southeast and was selected to Tom Leming's All-Southeast team. As dominant as he was on the gridiron, Gardner's athletic ability translated into great success on the hardwood and on baseball diamond. He was a three year starter in both sports and was voted most valuable player in basketball his senior year. His resume from Raines looks even more impressive when you consider the fact that it is the same high school that produced former Clemson standouts and current NFL players Patrick Sapp and Brian Dawkins.

Because he has always been a very vocal leader both on and off the football field, Gardner's soft side at home is often overlooked. His mother, Diane Sawyer, raised Gardner by herself until the sixth grade when she married Gardner's stepdad, Charles. Gardner and his mom have always had a special bond and to this day she is involved with every aspect of his life.

"I love my mom to death, and you might even say that I am a mama's boy," said Gardner. "She comes to every home game and no matter what, she is always been there to support me."

Gardner chose Clemson over Florida and Notre Dame because the Tigers promised him a chance to play quarterback. He was given the opportunity to play quarterback during fall practice his freshman year, but with Nealon Greene already solidified as the starter at that position, the coaching staff decided to red-shirt Gardner.

"Red-shirting was hard, but when I look back now I realize it was the best thing. I needed to mature both on and off the field," recalled Gardner.

In the spring of 1997, Gardner was moved from quarterback to the secondary where he was the backup strong safety behind Antwan Edwards. Because he came to Clemson with the hopes of playing quarterback, the switch to defense was difficult. Gardner, just as he had done many times as a child, turned to his mom for advice.

Rod Gardner needs 49 more catches to set the school reception record.

"I talked with my mom about it, and she told me just to stick it out and that things would work out," said Gardner.

Before the start of the 1997 season Gardner was moved to receiver and in the seventh game of the season against Wake Forest, Clemson fans caught their first glimpse of a star in the making. With the Tigers holding on to a slim lead in the third quarter, Gardner's dazzling 41-yard catch in the corner of the endzone helped seal a Clemson victory that Saturday at Groves Stadium. His catch would be the first of many circus catches registered by Gardner over his Clemson career. He went on to finish the 1997 season with eight catches for 101 yards.

After tallying 20 receptions in 1998, the 1999 season saw the emergence of Gardner as one the top receivers in the nation. His 80 total receptions broke the Clemson single season record previously held by Tony Horne (70). His 73 catches during the regular season led the ACC and were tied for the sixth-best single season total in league history. He was second in the league and 17th in the nation with 6.6 receptions per game and he tied the Clemson single game record with 11 catches in the season opener against Marshall.

Even with all the accolades that accompanied his record-breaking season in 1999, Gardner's big play ability and his breathtaking catches are what probably stand out most in the minds of Clemson fans. Against North Carolina last season, with the Tigers leading 24-17 in the third quarter, Gardner sprinted by Tar Heel cornerback Anthony Anderson and extended fully parallel to the ground to haul in a 31-yard pass from Woody Dantzler that appeared to be well overthrown.

"I knew I needed to make a big play, and there was no way I was going to let that ball hit the ground," recalled Gardner.

Two weeks later, Gardner took his magic show on the road to Maryland where he came up with two eye-popping grabs that helped to jump start a stagnant Tiger offense. On one of the catches, Gardner went high into the air and out-muscled First-Team All-ACC defensive back Lewis Sanders for the ball.

"The defensive back had the ball, but Rod just went up and took it away from him. I could not believe it when I saw it. That was definitely the best catch I have ever seen Rod make," said All-American linebacker Keith Adams.

Later in the season, Gardner's fourth down touchdown reception late in the South Carolina game turned out to be one of the most important plays in Clemson's turnaround of 1999.

"The catch against South Carolina has been my most memorable catch. It was very important to me because it helped us beat South Carolina and go to a bowl game. It is also very memorable because it helped me reach 1,000 receiving yards in a season."

At 6-foot-4 and weighing 215 pounds, Gardner's size has always been his of most valuable asset as a receiver. It is Gardner's work ethic, however, that separates him from other college players that possess the same physical attributes as him. Over his career at Clemson, his dedication in the weight room and on the practice field has translated to extraordinary success on Saturday afternoons. He has increased his bench press by over 100 pounds, his vertical jump by over three inches, and he has decreased his 40 time from 4.61 to 4.48.

"Rod is a tremendous leader in the weight room," said assistant strength coach Tony Smith. "He always does more than we ask of him. If we ask him to do 10 repetitions of a certain exercise he will do 12. He gives us great effort everyday and he is always there to make sure that everyone else on the team is giving the same type of effort that he is."

Besides dedicating himself to becoming a better football player, Gardner has made great strides in the classroom as well. Majoring in industrial education and scheduled to graduate in December, he was named most improved in the classroom for 1999.

"Over the past three years, Rod has really focused on his academic work and as a result his grade point average has risen tremendously over that period of time," said Joe White, Clemson's academic advisor for football. "We are very proud of Rod's academic work and several faculty members within the university have even told me how pleased they are with his improvement in the classroom."

Clemson receivers' coach and recruiting coordinator, Rick Stockstill, is extremely proud of Gardner's growth as a person and as a football player over his career.

"The biggest credit to Rod ever since he has been here is that he has been very focused on wanting to be a good football player. "Considering he never played receiver before he got here, he deserves a great deal of credit for how hard he has worked to develop his skills. It has been a real pleasure to coach Rod and to watch him grow as a person," said Stockstill."

Gardner needs just 49 catches to break the Clemson record for total receptions in a career. He is a preseason first-team All-ACC selection by many publications and is ranked by The Sporting News as the number-three candidate for the Biletnikoff Award, which is given annually to the nation's best receiver. He is the top returning receiver in the league based on total receptions and Lindy's magazine ranks him as the eighth most talented player in the ACC.

Looking back over his career at Clemson, Gardner can't help but smile when he thinks about how his move to receiver has turned out.

"With all the good things that have happened to me over the past year, I would do it all over again exactly the same way," recalled Gardner. "I have worked extremely hard to become the best football player I possibly can, and I am very fortunate with the way things have worked out."

With all the success he and the entire Clemson team experienced last season, Rod Gardner's move to receiver before the 1997 season now seems to have been a blessing in disguise. After reading the 1996 headline "Florida QB picks Tigers," Tiger fans everywhere probably expected Gardner to follow in the footsteps of other great Clemson quarterbacks such as Homer Jordan and Steve Fuller. Now, as a star receiver, don't be surprised to pick up a newspaper towards the end of the 2000 season and read the headline: "Gardner Breaks Clemson All-Time Receptions Record."

What a difference four years of hard work can make.

Gardner's fourth-down touchdown catch to beat South Carolina in 1999 was one of the most important plays in Clemson's turnaround.

Recruiting

By Todd Lamb
Asst. Sports Information Director

A lot has changed in the realm of college football recruiting over the last decade and while no single element has had a greater impact on recruiting than the reduction of scholarships to 85, there is a new major hot button with coaches.

Internet web sites.

Now, they are not talking about news sites such as clemsontigers.com, but they are concerned about sites with internet chat rooms, where fans have the opportunity to write whatever they want whether it is fact, rumor or just speculation.

"Anyone can get out on the internet and type anything they want to about a certain coach or a certain player," said Clemson assistant coach Rick Stockstill, who oversees the football team's recruiting efforts in addition to his responsibility with Clemson's wide receivers. "The biggest thing that the kids we are recruiting need to know is that they shouldn't believe everything they see or read on their computer. They need to believe what they hear or see from the coach who is recruiting them."

To that end, the Clemson coaching staff is hard at work on the recruiting trail, developing relationships that will help build the program for years to come.

Each assistant coach has been assigned a recruiting area and it then becomes the responsibility of each coach to develop and maintain a relationship with the high school coaches in their area. The better a coach knows a high school coach, the easier it can be to sign a student-athlete from that school.

The NCAA limits the number of times a prospective student-athlete can come into contact with a coaching staff and further limits correspondence opportunities as well. Once a prospect enters his senior year, a coach can only make face-to-face contact six times during the recruiting process and call a prospect once a week on the telephone (except during the contact period, when calls are unlimited). A coach can write a prospect as often as he wants. Since it may be hard for a coach to get to know a prospect in six visits and three evaluation opportunities, having a good relationship with high school coach is extremely helpful to a college.

"If you can't walk into a kid's home in December and hug a kid, you don't have a chance," Stockstill said.

That's why establishing a relationship with a prospect's high school coach can be a benefit in the recruiting process. Since the majority of Clemson's coaching staff is in its second year in Tiger Town, it is working hard at building relationships with the area's high school coaches. Though many of the assistant coaches are new to Clemson, they have had roots in the areas where they have recruited since entering the profession.

Stockstill, who is now in his 12th season as an assistant coach with the Tigers, has had the same area to recruit in the state of South Carolina all 12 years. He also is assigned areas in Florida and Georgia and has picked up 15 new high schools in South Carolina this year.

"Consistency helps build relationships," he said. "Anytime you have continuity, you do a better job. Without continuity it takes a while to develop relationships and trust."

Stockstill says the high school coaches in this state do a great job of coaching and helping young men during the recruiting process.

Last April nearly 350 high school coaches converged on Clemson to take part in a clinic put on by head coach Tommy Bowden and his staff. While the clinic is meant to be educational, it is extremely helpful in cultivating better relationships between Clemson's staff and the state's high school coaches.

Many coaches attended the clinic to gain a better understanding of Bowden's offense, which has been called the offense of the future, by former San Francisco 49er's coach Bill Walsh. It is an offense that fans find exciting and one that is appealing to high school players, especially those in the offensive skill positions.

But just because the Tigers' offense is flashy, it doesn't mean that recruiting has gotten any easier.

"You have to work harder to sell and convince a kid that Clemson is the best place for him," Stockstill said. "I don't care if you are selling a Volkswagen or a Rolls Royce, you have to do something every day to sell your program. The work that goes into recruiting isn't easy."

And how could it be?

The recruiting process lasts all year. Signing day in February marks the end of the process in recruiting one class, but the recruiting process for the next class starts the very next day.

"You have to be a year ahead," Stockstill said. "Right now we have to know who we are recruiting for 2001 and have to have a good idea who we are going to recruit for 2002."

The beginning of the process really gets rolling in April and May of a recruit's junior year in what is called an evaluation period when coaches are permitted to evaluate a prospect's athletic ability and assess a prospect's academic qualifications.

"We normally go into April and May with a long list of names," Stockstill said. "We may have the list down to 1,000 names when the evaluation period begins. After that we'd like to cut it down between 400 and 450 names by the end of May."

Each of Clemson's assistant coaches then work to shrink the list to 40-45 players they want to look at in the fall. And that is where a coach's relationship with a prospect's high school coach is beneficial.

While the Clemson staff has a good idea about a prospect's athletic ability, his high school coach can provide insight into a prospect's character and academic standing and that will help shrink the list to a group that will become Clemson's next group of signees.

But even with a high school coach as an ally, the decision is one the prospect has to make on his own. He has to get all the facts about a school from the people he knows he can trust.

Rick Stockstill, who coordinates Clemson's recruiting efforts in addition to coaching the Tigers' wide receivers, is in his 12th season at Clemson.

Academic Excellence

By Tim Bourret
Sports Information Director

Clemson's Young, Carson, Named Academic All-Americans

Clemson starting center Kyle Young and starting inside linebacker Chad Carson were both named GTE Academic All-Americans by the College Sports Information Directors of America in 1999. The organization selects the official academic All-America teams in all sports in all divisions. Young, a native of Clemson, SC, was a first-team selection, while Carson, of Newnan, GA, was a second-team choice.

Young has a 3.97 career GPA in secondary education, while Carson has a 3.94 GPA in biological sciences.

This was the first year in history that Clemson had two Academic All-America selections in the same year. Clemson was one of just three Division I schools to have two players honored in 1999. Nebraska had three and Penn State also had two on the first two teams. Clemson is the only team in the nation with two returning academic All-Americans in the year 2000.

"Kyle Young and Chad Carson are certainly to be commended," said Clemson Head Coach Tommy Bowden. "Both have outstanding balance in their lives. To be among the leaders of our team on the field and accomplish what they have done in the classroom sets an outstanding example for our players, current and future."

Young is the first Clemson first-team selection by the GTE CoSIDA team since 1978 when Steve Fuller was chosen. Clemson has had first-team selections by the American Football Coaches Association since 1978. Young started every game at center in 1999 and led the team in knockdown blocks, he was second in plays..

A first-team All-ACC selection by Football News, Young was a major reason Clemson averaged over 400 yards per game in total offense for just the third time in history. His pass blocking was a key reason Clemson set school records for passing yardage, completions and completion percentage.

Carson finished the season with 144 tackles, the 10th highest total in Clemson history. That figure ranked second on the Clemson team and third in the ACC. He had his best game against Mississippi State in the Peach Bowl when he had 16 tackles, including two for loss. He had nine games of at least 10 tackles.

Clemson Football Graduation Rate Cited by AFCA

The Clemson football program was cited by the American Football Coaches Association this past summer for a graduation rate over 70 percent, according to a release by the association. It is the second straight year Clemson has been on the academic excellence list.

For the class entering in the fall of 1994, Clemson had a 76.46 percent graduation rate. The national average was 57 percent. Clemson was one of 27 Division I schools named in the list.

"We congratulate our student-athletes first," said Athletic Director Bobby Robinson. "We also feel this is a testimony to the efforts of our coaches and Bill D'Andrea's staff at the Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs."

"We have seen consistent improvement in the academic performance of our football program and all of our athletic teams in recent years since we built Vickery Hall in 1991. We are pleased with these results and our inclusion on this prestigious list."

Clemson is one of four ACC schools to make the list of schools honored for their graduation rates. The other ACC schools with a graduation rate of at least 70 percent were Duke, Virginia, and Wake Forest. Syracuse was named the Academic Achievement Award champion, having had 100 percent of its players graduate.

or better are: Ball State, Baylor, Boston College, Bowling Green, Central Michigan, Clemson, Duke, Hawaii, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Marshall, Miami (FL), Mississippi State, Northwestern, Notre Dame, Purdue, Rice, South Carolina, Syracuse, Southern California, Southern Methodist, Tulane, Tulsa, Virginia, Wake Forest and Wisconsin.

Clemson Football Team Sets Record in Spring of 2000

The Clemson football team was one of three Clemson teams to post all-time single semester GPAs in the spring of 2000. The team had a 2.49 team GPA for the spring, far ahead of the previous high of 2.38. Tommy Bowden has been the head coach at Clemson for three semesters and his team has broken the previous semester GPA record twice.

An all-time record 39 Clemson football players were on the academic honor roll, including seven members of the freshman signee class of 1999. For the academic year, 21 Clemson gridgers were named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll, most in history.

One of the reasons for the success was the academic performance of the freshman class. The freshman class for the 1999-2000 academic year had a 2.68 GPA, far ahead of the 2.49 average for all male freshmen on the Clemson campus last year.

For the third straight semester the overall GPA for the student-athletes was at an all-time high, this year reaching 2.76. That is just .02 below the average for the overall student body, the closest differential on record.

A record six Clemson athletic teams posted a team GPA of over 3.0 in the spring semester of 2000 according to statistics released by the school's athletic council in June, 2000. Ninety-two student-athletes were named to the Dean's List, 20 more than any other semester in Clemson history. A total of 217 student-athletes were on the academic honor roll, second highest figure in history. Almost 46 percent of Clemson's student-athletes are on the academic honor roll. A total of 24 student-athletes had a perfect 4.0, second highest semester figure in Clemson history.

The list of President's List student-athletes includes first-team Academic All-American Kyle Young, the starting center on the Tiger football team, and second-team Academic All-American Chad Carson, the second leading tackler on the 1999 Tigers.

President James F. Barker

Clemson University's 14th President, James F. Barker, is first and foremost an architect. So it comes as no surprise that after one year in office, he is already designing a blueprint for Clemson's future — a future built around such ideas as collaboration, community, and quality.

A 1970 Clemson graduate, the former dean of the university's College of Architecture, Arts and Humanities was named president in October 1999, bringing to the job a clear vision of Clemson's future. Barker has outlined a 10-year goal for Clemson to become one of the top 20 public universities in the country.

"South Carolina students deserve to have access to a top-tier education without leaving their home state," he said. "Building Clemson's academic, research and service programs to the level where we can compete with anyone will benefit our state, our students, and our alumni."

Specifics of the 10-year plan include:

- Continuing to excel in teaching;
- Increasing research support to at least $100 million a year;
- Setting the standard in public service by engaging the whole campus in service and outreach;
- Completing the current capital campaign and a subsequent one, exceeding goals in both;
- In athletics, winning another national championship in football and two other sports, and making it to the Final Four at least twice in basketball;
- Sending student performing groups to Carnegie Hall;
- Establishing a thriving Phi Beta Kappa chapter;
- Seeing at least two Clemson students win Rhodes Scholarships;
- Building a greater sense of community and diversity;
- Increasing international programs and activities;
- Seeking out areas where teaching, research and service overlap;
- Focusing on collaboration, with partners both inside and outside the university;
- Improving essential academic resources such as the library.

They are ambitious goals, but goals that Barker believes Clemson can achieve.

"The charge that I have been given is to ensure that the idea of Clemson will be stronger at the end of my service than it is now," he said at his inauguration. "I am convinced that there is no university in America stronger than Clemson when we are 'one Clemson.' A united Clemson is unstoppable."

Barker earned his bachelor of architecture degree from Clemson and his master of architecture and urban design degree from Washington University in St. Louis. Before returning to Clemson in 1986 to serve as dean of the College of Architecture, he was dean of the School of Architecture at Mississippi State University. In 1995, he became dean of the new College of Architecture, Arts and Humanities, which was created after a comprehensive reorganization and has received national attention as a new model in education.

He is a recipient of the National Distinguished Professor Award of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture and served as president of that association. Barker was named Fellow of the American Institute of Architects. He also has been a partner in an architectural practice.

At Clemson, Barker co-founded the S.C. Design Arts Partnership to support community design outreach projects, initiated the Charleston Architecture Center, established the university's "Arts in April" program, and developed a Mayors' Institute to help city leaders learn how to manage issues related to growth and development.

Despite his new responsibilities as president, Barker remains committed to the classroom. As dean, he taught at least one class per year. Last spring, he was part of a team teaching an undergraduate course exploring "a sense of place" in architecture, literature, and history.

"I think it's important that a president never lose touch with the classroom," he said.

The Barkers — Jim and Marcia — have two sons: 16-year-old Britt, a sophomore at Daniel High School, and Jacob, 26, who graduated from the University of North Carolina, attending on a baseball scholarship, and is now enrolled in graduate school at Clemson and working in the sports information office.

President Barker (first row, second from right) was a member of the Clemson Track & Field team as a pole vaulter.

Head Coach Tommy Bowden

When Tommy Bowden approached the 1999 season, he had one simple goal for his first Clemson team - Improvement. Bowden warned Clemson supporters that the Tigers were unlikely to be bowl participants in 1999, but his main focus was to improve. Bowden's goal of improvement was reached and he was happy to be wrong about his preseason prediction, as the Tigers were invited to the 1999 Chick-fil-A Peach Bowl.

Unfortunately, Clemson lost the bowl game 17-7 to Mississippi State, which finished the season ranked 12th in the nation. Clemson's fourth loss to a team ranked in the top 12 of the final AP poll. That loss did not tarnish the great accomplishments the Clemson football team achieved in its first season under Bowden.

In 1999, Bowden accomplished a personal milestone that no Clemson coach had attained since 1981, the year the Tigers won the National Championship. Bowden became the first Clemson coach since Danny Ford to be named ACC Coach of the Year.

Bowden led the Tigers to a 6-6 record and 5-3 mark in the ACC against the nation's third toughest regular season schedule according to Jeff Sagarin. The Tigers finished tied for second with Georgia Tech and Virginia in the final conference standings, a six-place improvement over the previous season, the greatest one season jump in ACC history in league play.

The Tigers also made a four-game ACC win improvement in 1999. It was just the fifth time in ACC history that a team made that big of a league victory jump. Bowden had taken over a team with a losing record and brought it to a bowl game in his first season, just the sixth coach in ACC history to accomplish that feat.

The Clemson program set or tied 38 school records in Bowden's first year, including 26 on offense. Ironically, Bowden's first Tulane team set or tied 26 offensive school records.

The improvements in the ACC standings were thanks in large part to an improved offensive attack. The Clemson offense ended the season averaging 402.6 yards per game, nearly a 100-yard per game improvement over 1998. The Tigers scored 26.8 points per game in 1999 compared to 19.8 in 1998. Clemson's 42 touchdowns in 1999 ranked fifth best in school history.

Bowden's first Clemson team averaged 67.1 more yards a game through the air than in 1998, as the Tigers passed for 3019 yards, an all-time Clemson record. Clemson quarterbacks made good on 59.6 percent of their pass attempts in 1999, third highest percentage in school history.

In 1998, Clemson ranked 103rd in the nation in turnover margin, but in 1999 the Tigers were 11th, an incredible 92-place improvement in the rankings. Clemson scored 100 points off turnovers, while opponents only scored 44 in the same statistical category.

Under Bowden, Clemson continued its strong defensive tradition. With 47 sacks, Clemson was first in the ACC in that category for the second straight season, and the final total established a Clemson record. Three players (Keith Adams - 15.5, Chad Carson - 12.0, Robert Carswell - 10.8) all had nearly 11 tackles per game in 1999 to rank among the top four tacklers in the league. Adams, a sophomore, finished the season with 186 tackles, highest in the nation, and broke the Clemson single season tackle record held by Anthony Simmons. They all contributed to the 17th best pass efficiency defense in the nation, a unit that had 19 interceptions, ninth highest in the country.

Thanks to the wide open offensive attack several Clemson players made their presence felt in the national rankings and the Clemson record book. Sophomore running back Travis Zachery had 16 touchdowns, to rank ninth in the country in scoring. He was injured in the first quarter of the Peach Bowl and did not get a chance to tie or break Lester Brown's single season Clemson record for touchdowns.

Junior wide receiver Rod Gardner set two Clemson single season records and became the school's first 1000-yard receiver. Gardner had 80 receptions for 1084 yards, Clemson single season records in both areas. He was 17th in the nation in receptions per game with a 6.6 mark. His yards per game average of 91.7 was 23rd best in the nation.

For the first time in Clemson history two Tiger quarterbacks threw for over 1000 yards in a season. Woodrow Dantzler passed for 1506 yards, while Brandon Streeter passed for 1466 yards during the regular season. The two diametrically opposite quarterbacks had total offense games over 350 yards, a testimony to Bowden's offensive system.

On the defensive side of the ball, Adams, a first-team All-American by Football News and the ACC Defensive Player of the Year, set the league tackle for loss record in 1999. Adams recorded 33 tackles for loss, six better than the previous mark during the regular season (Adams finished the season with 35 tackles for loss, but the ACC does not count bowl stats). He broke the school record for tackles in a game at South Carolina with 27.

Junior free safety Robert Carswell tied for first in the ACC and was 10th in the nation in interceptions with six. Senior cornerback Dextra Polite set an all-time Clemson record with 17 passes broken up.

Four of Clemson's five losses in 1999 came by four points or less and three of the five losses came against the only undefeated teams in the nation during the regular season (Marshall, Virginia Tech and Florida State).

Bowden Bowl I, the first ever meeting between father and son head coaches in college football history, took place on October 23, 1999. Bowden faced his father Bobby's top ranked Florida State team in Death Valley in front of a national television audience. The Tigers lost a tough battle to the eventual National Champions, 17-14, the closest margin of victory for the Seminoles and the fewest point they recorded all season by two touchdowns.

Making strong improvement in his first year with a program is nothing new for Bowden. In the two seasons he was the head coach at Tulane, Bowden took a team that had been 4-18 in the two years previous to his arrival, and emotionally and numerically reversed the team's fortunes with an 18-4 record, posted an 11-1 conference mark and finished the 1998 season ranked seventh in the nation by both polls. Tulane and Tennessee were the only undefeated teams in college football in 1998.

The Bowden Family: Tommy, Linda, Lauren and Ryan.

His Tulane team had a 22-game average of 39.7 points, 5.1 touchdowns, 463 yards of total offense, 270.5 yards passing, and 192.6 yards rushing. The Green Wave averaged 6.34 yards per play, and converted on third down 47 percent of the time.

Some say the most telling statistic in terms of wins and losses and the most telling statistic when it comes to coaching ability is turnover margin. The Green Wave ranked fifth in the nation in turnover margin each of his seasons at Tulane.

It didn't take Bowden long to put Tulane back on the college football landscape. In his first year, Tulane was picked last in the preseason polls of Conference USA. But, he led the New Orleans based school to a 7-4 record, a second-place conference standing with just one league loss, and set 33 school records in the process, including 26 on offense.

Tulane's accomplishments on offense were noteworthy in 1997, but their offensive charts reached uncharted areas in 1998. Tulane stood as the only school in the nation that averaged over 300 yards per game passing and 200 yards per game rushing. The team ranked fourth in the nation in total offense (507.1 per game) and second in scoring (45.4 points per game).

The Green Wave scored 40 or more points in eight contests in 1998, including each of the last seven games. In one game the Green Wave scored 72 points and rolled up 704 yards of total offense. They converted 52 percent of their third-down opportunities for the season and had just 11 turnovers in over 800 plays.

The 1998 season saw the program post a perfect 11-0 regular season under Bowden, its first perfect regular season since 1931. The Green Wave won Conference USA, its first league title since Tulane won the SEC in 1949. Bowden was named Conference USA Coach of the Year.

Bowden's team ranked seventh in the final AP poll and was a mainstay in the polls from the third week of the season on. Tulane had not been ranked at any time since 1979 and had not been ranked in a final poll since 1973. After Bowden accepted the job at Clemson, Tulane defeated BYU in the Liberty Bowl, 41-27.

Bowden's 11-0 record at the time was the 17th perfect regular season in college football in the decade of the 1990s.

A look to that list reveals two other coaches named Bowden. His father, Florida State Head Coach Bobby Bowden, had a perfect regular season in 1996 and 1999, while his brother, Terry, posted a perfect regular season in 1993. Obviously, the Bowdens are the first family of college coaching and this "Wonder Years" environment had a lot to do with Tommy Bowden's decision to enter the coaching world.

The fatherly influence of a college coach who reached 300 career wins against his son in 1999, also had an influence on other members of the family. Terry has been a head coach at Samford and Auburn, posting a 47-17-1 record at the latter. Terry serves as an in-studio commentator for ABC's college football package. Jeff Bowden is in his sixth year as wide receivers coach at Florida State.

Tommy Bowden began his college football experience as a walk-on wide receiver at West Virginia. He played for his father between 1973-74-75 and then for Frank Signetti during the 1976 season.

As a junior he caught 15 passes for 189 yards and one score. Bowden remained at West Virginia for the 1977 season and began his coaching career, serving as a graduate assistant on Signetti's staff. His interest in coaching only became more intense after that first year as a GA. His father then hired him as a secondary coach at Florida State for the 1978 season.

That experience confirmed to Bowden that he was in a profession that would be his life's work. The Seminoles posted a 19-4 mark in his two seasons at Florida State.

In 1980, Bowden joined the staff at East Carolina, where he coached for the Spring practice session of 1980. That spring, he moved to Auburn and served as the Tigers running backs coach for the 1980 season. Among the players he coached was James Brooks, who went on to a 13-year NFL career and is still second in Auburn history in rushing.

In 1981, Bowden returned to Tallahassee as the tight ends coach. In three more years at Florida State, the Seminoles posted a 23-12 mark and played in a pair of bowl games. The 1982 team ranked 13th in the final poll, claimed a 9-3 record and a Gator Bowl championship.

In Tommy's five years as an assistant coach under Bobby Bowden at Florida State the Seminoles were 42-16. In 1984, Bowden accepted his first job as a coordinator. He served under Steve Sloan at Duke as the Blue Devils quarterbacks coach and offensive coordinator. It was as the Duke offensive coordinator that Bowden made his first trip to Death Valley as a coach. Among the players Bowden tutored was Anthony Dilweg, who went on to an NFL career.

After three years at Duke, Bowden became the wide receivers coach at Alabama under Bill Curry. It was at Alabama that Bowden refined his offensive coaching prowess under noted offensive mind Homer Smith, then the Alabama Offensive Coordinator.

In 1990, Bowden returned to a coordinator position, serving Kentucky as its offensive coordinator and wide receivers coach. That season he helped the Wildcats to their first upper division SEC finish since 1984.

In 1991, Bowden joined Pat Dye at Auburn. He would remain with the SEC Tigers for six years, his longest stint as a college assistant coach. During his tenure, Auburn was a combined 46-20-2, including a perfect 11-0 season in 1993. Auburn had four Associated Press top 25 seasons, including a number-four final ranking in 1993 and a number-nine final rating in 1994. The Tigers were 20-1-1 in 1993-94 combined.

Bowden worked under his brother Terry Bowden for his last four years at Auburn and the Tigers had a 36-9-1 record with both Bowdens on the staff.

Born on July 10, 1954, in Birmingham, AL, Bowden is married to the former Linda Joan White, who he first met when the two were in school together at Morgantown High in West Virginia. The couple has two children, Ryan (18), a freshman at Clemson, and Lauren (15), a student at Daniel High.

Death Valley

Clemson Memorial Stadium has been held in high esteem for many years. Whether it be players from the 1940s and 1950s, opposing players from the 1970s and 1980s, or even professional players in the 1990s, the ambiance of this special setting is what college football is all about.

The storied edifice added to its legend when the first meeting of father and son head coaches (Bowden Bowl I) took place before a sellout crowd of more than 86,000 fans.

In the 1970s, 1980s and 1990s, various publications named top 10 stadiums in college football and Clemson Memorial Stadium, affectionately known as "Death Valley," has been a common denominator on those lists.

The facility's mystique is derived from its many traditions, which date to its opening in 1942, the legendary games and players, and Clemson's corresponding rate of success. Clemson has won 202 games in the previous 58 years there (202-80-7) and has won over 70 percent of the contests. Thirty times since 1983, crowds have exceeded 80,000.

The stadium has definitely been good to the Tigers who call it home, but the stadium was constructed against the advice of at least one Clemson coach. Just before head coach Jess Neely left for Rice University after the 1939 season, he gave Clemson a message. "Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "Put about 10,000 seats behind the Y.M.C.A. That's all you'll ever need".

Instead of following Coach Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing—there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work: clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally, on September 19, 1942, Clemson Memorial Stadium opened with the Tiger football team thrashing Presbyterian College, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow; and grow and grow. This year Clemson celebrates its 59th year in this outstanding facility.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron went on to become a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without a few problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young football player proudly announced that he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, however, the boy was swollen twice his size and had to be put in the hospital.

There are many other stories about the stadium, including one stating that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner of the stadium as the concrete poured.

Howard said that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid sod on the field," he said. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through.

"I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more week's pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have

Clemson has had 30 crowds over 80,000 in Death Valley, including the record of 86,092 for Bowden Bowl I in 1999.

50 gallons of ice cream when we got through. After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard said that on the day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 pm and we played at 2:00 pm." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and, in 1960, a total of 5,658 West end zone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large end zone, "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to about 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of the stadium as crowds swelled-the first one in 1978 and the second in 1983. This increased capacity to over 80,000 which makes it one of the 10 largest on-campus stadiums in the country.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or at $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

Through the years, Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillan. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, McMillan said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later the name stuck.

On November 16, 1974 the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

Luckily, the stadium wasn't built behind the Y.

Running Down The Hill

"Mark Richt (assistant coach) was talking to Jeff Bowden (assistant coach) telling him what to call. Jeff was screaming at a player not five yards away and that guy couldn't hear him.

"When we went out to warm up it felt like a National Championship game. When I went back to the team (in the locker room) before the game, I said this is going to be great practice for playing at Florida because this is as loud as it gets."

Florida State Head Coach Bobby Bowden

"Death Valley really lives up to its image. I was impressed with this stadium. When you put 80,000 people in there, it really feels like they are on top of you. I would hate to be Georgia Tech or whoever else comes in here."

San Francisco 49ers Quarterback Steve Young

"Clemson's record at home is not a coincidence. Running down the hill is a part of that record. You get so inspired, and so much of college football is about emotion. You get out of that bus and you hear the roar of the crowd and it gives you chills up and down your spine."

Former Clemson All-America kicker David Treadwell

"The rock has strange powers. When you rub it, and run down the hill, the adrenaline flows. Its the most emotional experience I've ever had."

Six-time All-Pro and former Clemson All-American Michael Dean Perry

"Running down the hill is still talked about everywhere I go. Players who played against Clemson when I was in college remember us running the hill and thinking we would gain some type of spirit. The adrenalin rush was unbelievable for a Clemson player and quite a shock for the opponent."

Former Clemson All-American Jerry Butler

"Last spring (1999), New York Knicks Head Coach Jeff Van Gundy came to Clemson for a coaching clinic. One of the first things he said was, 'before I leave I've got to rub Howard's Rock.' So, we brought him to the rock about midnight one night. He rubbed the rock, but he wouldn't run down the hill. He was a little afraid of that."

Clemson Head Basketball Coach Larry Shyatt

"It has always been a dream to run down that hill. You get to the top and it's emotional because you think of all the players that have done the exact same thing that you are doing. When you get to the bottom you look up and see 80,000 people hollering and you realize you have a tradition to live up to."

Clemson Traditions

FIRST FRIDAY PARADE

The Clemson football season kicks off each year with the annual First Friday Parade. The once-a-year event takes place on the Friday afternoon prior to the first home football game. Floats from various fraternities and sororities and other campus organizations are represented in the parade that rolls down highway 93 in front of the President's house in Clemson. The parade culminates at the Amphitheater in the middle of campus where the first Pep Rally of the year takes place.

The Grand Marshal of the Parade is featured at the Pep Rally. Recent Grand Marshals have ranged from former PGA professional Dillard Pruitt, to College Football Hall of Fame legends Jess Neely and Frank Howard, to noted television announcers Brent Musburger and Ara Parseghian.

HOMECOMING

Clemson holds a classic homecoming every year. Displays by fraternities and sororities that are months in the making, are built on Bowman Field the week prior to Homecoming weekend. It is an event that draws alumni and friends of Clemson from all over the country.

The Friday evening prior to the game, Tigerama is held in Death Valley, which is an event that attracts over 35,000 fans. It is widely known as the largest pep rally in the world. The Homecoming Queen and her court are presented in addition to Homecoming skits, a pep rally, and a large and loud fireworks display.

The first homecoming game played at Clemson took place on September 30, 1922 when Clemson met Centre. Clemson has a 55-18-3 record on Homecoming games over the years, a 74 winning percentage, and has outscored the opposition 1,609-996 in those previous 76 games. The average margin of victory is 21 to 12. Clemson has been especially successful on Homecoming in recent years, posting a 25-2-2 record since 1970.

HOWARD'S ROCK

When the Clemson team gathers to run down "The Hill", the players first rub Howard's Rock because of the mystical powers it is supposed to give Clemson players. The rock is mounted on a pedestal at the top of the hill and was given to Coach Frank Howard by a friend (S.C. Jones '19) who picked it up in Death Valley, CA. The Rock was first placed on the pedestal at the top of the hill on September 24, 1966, for a game Clemson won 40-35 over Virginia. In that game, the Tigers rallied from 18 points down with 17 minutes to play. The team started rubbing the rock for the first game of 1967, a 23-6 win over Wake Forest on September 23, 1967.

THE TIGER PAW

The Tiger Paw logo has become synonymous with the University's athletic teams since its invention by John Antonio. Antonio was an innovative account executive with Henderson Advertising in Greenville, and prior to the 1970 season, unveiled the Paw as Clemson's new logo. It has shown up all over the country on items owned by Clemson fans from shirts to hats to the now famous "two-dollar bills". Many institutions with a feline as a mascot have used the logo, or an impression of it.

Antonio also came up with the phrase, "Fly the friendly skies of United," when he worked for the Leo Burnette Agency in Chicago. "I've never had a logo or an emblem copied as much as the Tiger Paw," said Antonio, now 69 and living in Greenville.

Antonio still remembers the day he made the presentation of the Tiger Paw to Frank Howard, then the Clemson Athletic Director. "He wasn't saying much at all," recalled Antonio in an article in the Greenville News by Alyce Atkinson on Feb. 16, 1997. "I kind of thought I was losing this fight." At this point Antonio pulled out an orange football helmet with a tiger paw painted on the side.

"Coach Howard's eyes got as big as saucers and he smiled. From there it was downhill. Coach Howard wanted that helmet." Those Tiger paws are still on the Clemson helmets today.

Ring Of Honor

The Clemson Ring of Honor is in its sixth season of existence in Clemson Memorial Stadium. On September 3, 1994, during ceremonies prior to the Clemson-Furman football game, Frank Howard, Steve Fuller, and Banks McFadden were inducted into the Clemson Ring of Honor. On September 2, 1995, Jeff Davis was added to the Clemson Ring of Honor. On September 6, 1997, Fred Cone was added and Jerry Butler was inducted in 1999.

The Ring of Honor is the highest honor a Clemson football player can receive. A recipient must first be a member of the Clemson Hall of Fame, earn at least an undergraduate degree, and make a significant contribution to the heritage of Clemson athletics. Honorees will have their jersey retired.

Howard was Clemson's head coach between 1940-69, as he guided Clemson to eight conference championships, six bowl games, and six top-25 seasons. He was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame in 1989 and is the second winningest coach in ACC history. He had 165 wins when he retired, the most in ACC history.

McFadden was named the nation's most versatile athlete in 1939. He was an All-American in football and basketball, the only Clemson athlete in history to do that. McFadden led Clemson to its first bowl bid ever, a 6-3 win over Boston College in the 1940 Cotton Bowl. He was the number-three pick of the 1940 NFL draft, the highest draft selection in Clemson history.

Fuller is the only football player in Clemson history to be chosen an All-American on the field and in the classroom. Fuller was a first-team Academic All-American in 1977 and 1978 and was a third-team AP All-American in 1978. Fuller, who was ACC MVP on two occasions, is still Clemson's all-time leader in touchdown responsibility. He was an NCAA Top Five Award winner in 1979, the only Clemson athlete to win the award.

Davis, captain of Clemson's 1981 National Championship team, was a first-team All-American that year when he led the Tigers in tackles with 175, the second highest total in Clemson history. Davis was also named the MVP of the ACC and was the Defensive MVP of the Orange Bowl victory over Nebraska, the game that clinched the national championship for the Tigers.

Cone, was the first player in Clemson history to rush for at least 2,000 yards in a career. Cone played for the Tigers from 1948 to 1950.

He still ranks second on the Clemson career list for touchdowns with 31. Cone was a starter on two undefeated Clemson teams, one of two players in Clemson history to do that.

Butler was a first-team AP All-American in 1978 when he joined Steve Fuller in leading Clemson to a number-six national ranking and 11-1 record. He caught at least one pass in 35 consecutive games, a record that still stands today. In 1979 he was the number-five draft pick of the NFL by the Buffalo Bills, where he played at a Pro Bowl level for eight seasons.

CLEMSON UNIVERSITY RING OF HONOR GUIDELINES

Purpose: The charge of this committee is to bestow the highest athletic award presented by the Clemson Athletic Department on deserving candidates. The committee will examine the careers of candidates in all Clemson sports.

Nominations: Nominations are made by any member of IPTAY, faculty or staff personnel, or relative of a worthy candidate, and are accepted 30 days prior to the committee meeting. The committee will meet once every two years in the month of April to vote on the nominations. Nominations will be made in the form of a letter with a complete list of accomplishments, and submitted to the chair of the committee, who will retain an active file of nominations. Letters of support may also be submitted. All nominations will remain on file for a period of three voting committee meetings (five years). The Chair of the Committee will screen all nominations to make sure they meet eligibility requirements.

Committee: The Committee will be composed of 11 members:

- Sports Information Director, Chair
- Athletic Director
- Director of Student-Athlete Enrichment
- Senior Associate Athletic Director
- Executive Secretary of IPTAY
- A member of the Board of Trustees
- A member of the Tiger Lettermen's Assoc.
- A member of the Athletic Council
- NCAA Faculty Representative
- University President or designee
- Head Coach of a sport that has a nomination (i.e., Head Football Coach votes on football candidates, basketball coach votes on basketball candidates, etc.)

Eligibility: This committee will recognize individuals who have demonstrated consistent and unique national excellence in their sport during their Clemson career. Their accomplishments must be significant on an individual and team basis. Their statistical accomplishments must be noteworthy, but they should also have an outstanding record in terms of leadership. In general, they must have made a noteworthy contribution to the history of the Clemson Athletic Program.

Athletic accomplishments after their Clemson career are not a primary consideration in the nomination, but they must retain an unblemished record of citizenship after they leave Clemson.

A candidate must be a member of the Clemson Hall of Fame and must hold a baccalaureate degree from an accredited four-year University or college.

Financial contributions to Clemson University will not be a consideration when evaluating the candidates.

For a coach to be nominated, he or she must be retired from coaching that sport at the college level.

Selection Process: Each committee member will cast one vote per sport. An honoree must obtain at least seven votes to be selected. There will be just one ballot. The committee does not have to select any honorees at its meeting. There shall be no more than one honoree in a sport for every two years.

Conferring: In the sport of football, the honoree will have his name, number, years participated and helmet enshrined in the Ring of Honor at Clemson Memorial Stadium. In the sport of basketball, the honoree's jersey will be hung from the rafters of Littlejohn Coliseum. In the sport of baseball a jersey replica will be hung from the fence of Tiger Field. Other sports will establish appropriate sites at the home facility.

When a student-athlete is selected the person's jersey is honored, but the jersey number may be worn in the future.

The nature and organization of the ceremony will be determined from a meeting between the honoree, the athletic director, the committee chair and the head coach of the sport involved.

BCS & Bowl Schedule

Starting in 1998, the Bowl Championship Series (BCS) determined the Division I-A National Champion in football.

In the BCS's first season, Tennessee defeated Florida State, 23-16, in the Fiesta Bowl to claim the national title. Last year, it was Florida State's turn as the Seminoles topped Virginia Tech 46-29 in the Sugar Bowl for their second national title in seven years.

The BCS Series consists of the Rose Bowl, Sugar Bowl, Orange Bowl and the Fiesta Bowl. Conferences with automatic berths include the Atlantic Coast, Big East, Big Ten, Big 12, Pac-10 and the Southeastern Conferences.

This past January, BCS members voted to extend the BCS agreement with ABC through the 2005 regular season and 2006 bowl season allowing each of the four bowls to host two national championship games.

The BCS also notes the importance of regional consideration regarding team selection. Specifically, as a member of the BCS, the Rose Bowl will host the Big Ten and Pac-10 champions in those years in which either the Rose Bowl does not have the national championship game or the Big Ten and Pac-10 champion is not ranked No. 1 or No. 2. Other "regional consideration" tie-ins include the SEC champion in the Sugar Bowl, the ACC or Big East champion in the Orange Bowl and the Big 12 champion in the Fiesta Bowl.

Any Division I-A independent team or the champion of any Division I-A conference which is ranked sixth or higher in the BCS standings, will also be eligible for the Bowl Championship Series. A year ago, more than 1.2 million fans attended college football's 23 bowl games. This season, there will be 25 post-season bowl games, from the 87th Annual Rose Bowl, to the first-year galleryfurniture.com Bowl in Houston, Texas and the Silicon Valley Bowl in San Jose, Calif.

Strength Training

Clemson fans look forward to seeing tough, hard-nosed football when they come to Death Valley or travel to other schools to watch their Tigers in action. But some of the Tigers' most intense competition and action doesn't take place on autumn Saturday's and it doesn't take place on a field. Take a peek into the Clemson Strength Training Room at almost any time of day, almost any day of the week, at any time of the year, and you will see the Tigers building the foundation for their pursuit of a championship.

Perhaps the most impressive characteristic of the facility is its size. Several years ago, it was enlarged to an astounding 11,000 square feet, making it one of the largest in the nation. In 1998, it was expanded to 14,000 square feet. The facility boasts two full lines of Nautilus machines and over 12 tons of weights. The large number of machines and free weights allows the weight room to be used by athletes from several other sports at the same time, without anyone having to wait in line at a particular station.

Within the last two years the dumbbell area and leg development areas were expanded as well as the nutrition and hydration area known as the Power Station. The Power Station features the energy and recovery drink to aid each athlete's recovery from intense training.

The plush atmosphere provides an interesting contrast to the physical exertion that takes place in the facility.

When an athlete enters the etched glass doors, he is greeted by plush, wall-to-wall carpeting, walls lined with mirrors, ceiling fans, and music from a 26-speaker sound system - a worthy backdrop for well over $500,000 worth of state-of-the-art equipment.

Color television monitors are also positioned throughout the facility. These monitors are used for training and instruction, as Tiger strength coaches film the athletes and work with them on form correction.

The large staff of four full-time strength coaches, four graduate assistants, numerous student assistants, and volunteers ensures that each football player receives proper instruction on the fundamentals of strength and speed development. Training programs at Clemson are position specific and designed to meet the needs and demands of each athlete. Also, each position is appointed a full-time strength coach that serves as a personal trainer for that particular athlete throughout his career.

Hard core training and competition in the weight room and the annual Ironman Classic will help each athlete reach optimal levels in strength and speed development. The Tiger Strength Training and Nutrition Program help each athlete to become a complete player.

Vickery Hall

Vickery Hall

Since its inception in 1991, the five-faceted Student-Athlete Enrichment Program has provided its student-athletes a continued commitment to excellence. Our approach is to address the total student-athlete, and we are committed to coaching our student-athletes to success (C.A.T.S.) not only in the athletic arena but in the academic, personal growth, career, and service arenas as well. As an original member of the

C.A.T.S. Coaching Athletes To Success

NCAA Life Skills/CHAMPS Program, we provide opportunities and services to address the changing needs and skills of student-athletes in the years during college and after graduation.

Clemson University's commitment to provide its student-athletes with the very best of facilities is evident in many ways. From the soaring upper decks of Memorial Stadium, to the state-of-the-art strength training facility, young men and women from all 19 of Clemson's varsity sports have the very best in facilities for training and competition.

Vickery Hall is no exception, as the $3 million structure is as impressive aesthetically as any of the other facilities. But the importance of Vickery Hall to the Clemson University Athletics Department is not found in the structure itself, but in the many programs that the building houses.

Vickery Hall opened in the spring of 1991 and was the first support facility in the country built solely for the all-around education of student-athletes. The two-story, 27,000 square-foot building is open throughout the day and into the evening to accommodate the extended schedules of student-athletes.

The mission of the Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs is to monitor, guide, and encourage student-athletes to fulfill their long-term goals, and to achieve their academic and career potential.

Vickery Hall focuses on five primary areas to meet the student-athlete's needs.

ACADEMIC COMMITMENT

The academic commitment aspect of Clemson's Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs has provided one of the best academic support and advising programs in the nation.

The proof is in the statistics. A record 227 Clemson student-athletes made the academic honor roll in the fall of 1999. The student-athletes had a record 2.76 GPA in the spring of 2000, just .02 from the overall student body GPA of 2.78. Records were also established for number of President's List and Dean's List students.

In the spring of 2000 the Clemson football team posted a team GPA of 2.49, highest on record. A record 21 players were named to the ACC Academic Honor Roll for 1999-2000.

The Academic Counselors perform a variety of duties to track academic progress. These duties include providing assistance in registration and priority scheduling, contacting faculty, personally checking classes, recording information, counseling sessions with student-athletes, providing diagnostic testing, and directing career aspirations.

One of the most prestigious programs that has received recognition essential to the growth of Vickery Hall is the tutorial program.

Of the 160 programs certified by CRLA, the Clemson Student-Athlete Enrichment Program was one of the first three student-athlete programs in the country to be granted a Level 1 certification from the College of Reading and Learning Association, International Tutor Certification Program. The program was also honored with the National Champs Life Skills Excellence Award in 1999, one of six schools from across the country to be honored.

Having tutor certification allows student-athletes to be provided the highest quality of academic assistance possible. Approximately 80 tutors are hired to provide academic support in the many subject areas offered.

Many post-graduate scholarships and internships are also available to student-athletes continuing their education through postgraduate studies. Our student-athletes are provided timely information regarding these opportunities and the resources necessary to assist in the application process for either scholarships or internships.

The Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs has recognized the need for students to have access to high-quality computing equipment and has made a commitment to provide the student-athletes at Clemson with one of the largest computer labs in the country. Located on the first floor of Vickery Hall is the Microcomputer Laboratory. The lab is open seven days a week, for 16 hours on Monday through Thursday, and a limited time on Saturday and Sunday. During exam periods the lab hours are extended.

The lab staff has a full-time computer manager, and also graduate students, many of whom are pursuing advanced degrees in computer science. Lab staff members are available for tutoring of any Computer Science course, as well as the many management, engineering, and business courses that deal with personal computers.

The Department of Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs is committed to providing state-of-the-art computing facilities. New computers have recently been purchased bringing the lab to a state of the art facility. More than 50 computers are available for student-athletes.

All computers are fully connected to the internet allowing for access of computers throughout the world for research and communication.

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT COMMITMENT

One of the most important programs that helps student-athletes reach their full potential and engage successfully in this college experience is the Personal Growth and Development Program.

One of the key components of this program is the first-semester freshman transition class designed to assist the student-athlete in making a successful transition into his/her university and athletic life. All first-semester freshmen attend a semester-long series of workshops targeting the transitional issues of time management, organizational strategies, health and wellness issues, athletic issues, diversity issues, career orientation, and service training. Throughout the academic year, all student-athletes are required to attend four large-group programs, which focus on pertinent social, health, and athletic issues.

CAREER DEVELOPMENT COMMITMENT

The Career Assistance Program provides student-athletes an opportunity to fulfill career aspirations by participating in various career seminars offered by the staff at Vickery Hall. The philosophy of this program is to provide student-athletes with job-searching skills and strategies, internships, practical experience, and summer employment. These programs are designed to address specific career opportunities and acquire information about the student-athletes for each year.

By using the resources available to the University, Alumni Center, and the Athletic Department, the staff is working to establish a network of businesses, companies, and executives who will help assist with the Summer Employment Assistance Program. The program's main goal is to provide the student-athletes with job experience and a work history, which he or she can apply to his or her academic discipline.

The Career Assistance Program is coordinated from the academic colleges, the Placement Center, and through the Athletic Department contacts. This program is designed to better prepare the student-athlete for full-time employment and focuses on resume writing and interview techniques.

SERVICE COMMITMENT

Providing community and outreach service to student-athletes and the surrounding community by engaging the student-athletes in hands-on interactive programs is an important aspect of the Student-Athlete Enrichment Programs. The staff of SAEP coordinates various activities each year to engage student-athletes in community outreach projects along with academic programs.

Another aspect of the service commitment is that of community service. The purpose of community service is to allow the student-athletes to become involved with the happenings of the community while giving back at the same time. Each year every team is required to perform at least two community outreach projects. Recently implemented was a new community service program entitled Success Away From the Game. The purpose of this program is to combine athletes of different sports in community outreach programs. By doing this, each outreach program participates, thus creating a diverse group of athletes with new and different ideas. At the end of each year, six student-athletes who have demonstrated outstanding commitment and contributions to the community are recognized as the Top Six by the ACC.

LIFELine, another aspect of community service, consists of chosen football players who work together in specific community outreach projects. LIFELine has approximately 20 members along with a president, vice president and secretary. Once a month, these young men meet to discuss future projects. To date, they have sponsored Hi-Five Day, planted a garden at Helping Hands Children Shelter, and held reading programs at elementary schools. These young men have vital roles in both the community and the athletic arena.

To assist our student-athletes in becoming effective service leaders and communicators we provide service and speaking training, which anticipates the demands placed on a student-athlete when he/she might be speaking with a group of young people or also speaking with the media.

ATHLETIC COMMITMENT

Under the direction of athletic director Bobby Robinson, Clemson is undoubtedly one of the elite programs of Division I athletics.

Five Clemson teams ranked in the final top 10 of their respective sports last season, including three spring sports. Last year marked the fifth straight year Clemson has had at least seven top 25 teams. Eleven of Clemson's 19 teams advanced to postseason play during the 1999-2000 academic year. Sixty Clemson student-athletes earned first-team All-ACC honors, the highest number since 1991-92. With a generous funding base from Clemson's booster organization, IPTAY, and the forward-thinking of our athletic administration, the Clemson Tigers will continue to be a dominating athletic force, not only in the ACC, but nationally as well.

Break From Tradition.

Traditionally, rich aesthetics, cost-effectiveness and color haven't gone hand in hand. If you wanted fashion color, you had to go to a specialty boutique and it wasn't going to be cheap. With Eastman's Chromspun® and Estron® yarns — you can have your cake and eat it too.

Chromspun solution dyed acetate yarn is available in a wide range of fashion colors and can also be produced in custom colors. It complements our popular Estron line of white yarns. Plus, we make all Eastman® yarns in the USA. As a matter of fact, Chromspun is the only colored acetate yarn made in America. That's a tradition we're proud of.

One of the most significant agricultural research projects of the century is the National Science Foundation's plant genome project — a massive effort to map the DNA of all major food and fiber crop plants. With understanding plants' genetic make-up comes the promise of higher yields, improved nutritional content and better resistance to heat, drought and damaging pests — in short, a more abundant and more nutritious food supply for the world.

The Clemson University Genomics Institute (CUGI) is a leading player in the project. Not only is CUGI involved in sequencing rice, tomato, cotton and other major crops, it also serves as the worldwide library for plant DNA materials. CUGI's Bacterial Artificial Chromosome Resource Center produces and supplies genetic materials of crop plants and their pests for researchers all over the world who are studying crops such as cotton, soybean, corn, tomato, barley and wheat.

The Genomics Institute — led by Rod Wing, holder of the Robert and Lois Coker Trustees Chair in Plant Molecular Genetics — has generated more than $8.5 million in external research grants since its creation in 1997. Supporting partners include many of the nation's leading biotechnology corporations, as well as NSF and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Dr. I.M. Ibrahim
Men's Soccer Coach, 1967-94

When anyone mentions the Clemson men's soccer team, almost 100 percent of the time the name I.M. Ibrahim will be spoken. The man who brought Clemson into national prominence will forever be known for his colorful personality, his unrelenting desire to win and his unsurpassed coaching skills in the ACC and the rest of the nation for that matter.

It was in the late 1960s that Clemson first became familiar with Dr. Ibrahim. He was already a highly respected chemistry professor at the university, when the school began thinking of forming a varsity soccer team to compete at the intercollegiate level. Thanks to Dr. Ibrahim, what originally was just a club sport turned out to be a producer of some of the best Clemson athletic squads of the 1970s and '80s. His 1984 and 1987 teams won the National Championship, giving Clemson three national team titles in the 1980s (football, 1981).

Dr. Ibrahim started the program in 1967 and was the only men's soccer coach Clemson had ever known until he retired in 1994. During his tenure, Clemson established itself as the ACC leader in men's soccer as well as a national force. He coached 16 Tigers that landed 24 All-America honors and 51 Tigers were named to the All-ACC first-team 92 times. Coach Ibrahim also led Clemson to the NCAA Tournament 17 times and a Clemson coaching record six NCAA Final Four appearances. Eighteen of his players earned ACC-Player-of-the-Year awards 12 times.

During his 28 years with the Tigers, Dr. Ibrahim coached Clemson to 11 ACC Championships, 13 regular season titles and finished in the top 20 for 18 seasons. He finished with an overall record of 388-100-31. He coached three U.S. Olympians and retired as the nation's fifth winningest coach.

Not many coaches in today's sports world have stayed as long at any one school as Dr. Ibrahim. Nor have many coaches today been around since the inception of their respective sport. It is for those reasons though that the name Dr. I.M. Ibrahim is still mentioned in the same sentence as Clemson men's soccer even today.

Elden Campbell
Men's Basketball, 1986-90

Who is the only common denominator between Clemson's winningest men's basketball teams in school history, 25-6 in 1986-87 and 24-8 in 1989-90?

Don't know? Here are a few hints. He is the only men's basketball player in Clemson history to record more than 100 blocked shots, steals and assists in a career. He is also the school's career leader in field goals. Still having trouble? All right, one last clue. He just so happens to be the career scoring leader and is currently playing on the NBA as a Charlotte Hornet.

Know the answer now? None other than Clemson basketball great Elden Campbell.

Clemson has had great players over the years in men's basketball. Starting with Tree Rollins and Larry Nance, all the way up to Dale Davis, Sharone Wright and Greg Buckner, Clemson has had some outstanding talent. But, none of the previously mentioned players has done what Elden Campbell has done for Clemson men's basketball.

In his four years here, Campbell made quite a name for himself as a scorer, shot blocker and steal artist. He played in more wins than any other Tiger in history (84). He also appeared in more wins during ACC matches than any other Tiger (32). Campbell was also a first-team All-ACC selection in 1989-90 as voted by the Atlantic Coast Sportswriters Association and the UPI. As a Tiger, he was voted honorable mention All-American by the AP, UPI and The Sporting News.

Campbell is the school's career scoring leader with 1,880 points. He had a streak of 36 straight ACC games in which he scored double figures and is tied for first for the Clemson career lead in double figure-scoring games with 97. He also led the 1989-90 Clemson team that won the school's only ACC title, winning the regular season championship.

After Clemson, Campbell still continued to shine with the Los Angeles Lakers, a team that made him a first round draft pick in 1990. He is the franchise's #2 shot blocker in its history with 1,006. At one time he had at least 100 blocks in seven straight years.

So the next time someone asks, who led Clemson in scoring, blocked shots and field goals during the championship season of 1989-90, the answer should be clear: Number 41, the great Elden Campbell.

Michael Dean Perry
Football, 1984-87

Every school has them. Some famous; Some not so famous; Some play different sports; some participate in the same; Some are separated by many years; Some play three or four years together. Whatever the case is, no other sibling pair will ever have the recognition that William and his little brother Michael Dean Perry had while at Clemson.

It was William that came to Clemson first proving himself to be an almost unstoppable force on the defensive line before taking the world by storm as a member of the great Chicago Bears teams of the 1980's. But it was Micheal Dean that had the most success at the collegiate and professional levels combined.

Micheal Dean played on two ACC Championship teams in 1986 and 1987. He also was a starter on defense for the '86 Gator Bowl squad and the '87 Citrus Bowl squad. Michael Dean led the Tigers with 15 tackles for loss and nine sacks in 1986 and 24 tackles for loss and 10 sacks in 1987. For his career, Micheal Dean had 61 tackles for loss, one more than William. He also had 28 career sacks, while William has 27. His totals for sacks and tackles for loss are Clemson records.

During his junior and senior seasons, Micheal Dean was voted to the All-ACC first-team and was a first-team All-American in 1987. He was one of three finalists for the Outland Trophy in 1987 while leading Clemson to a 10-2 overall record, 6-1 in the ACC. Also in his phenomenal senior season of 1987, Micheal Dean was voted ACC Player-of-the-Year, a rare distinction for a defensive player.

After Clemson, he went on to participate in six Pro Bowls with the Cleveland Browns and Denver Broncos, more than any other former Tiger. Recently, Micheal Dean was voted as the 10th greatest Clemson football player of the 20th century. In 1996 he was also voted to the Clemson Centennial Team.

Hall of Fame

Jessica Barr-Dennis
Women's Basketball, 1992-94

Anyone who comes to Clemson to play women's basketball, will undoubtedly be told of the great scoring and rebounding accomplishments of Barbara Kennedy. Her scoring titles and rebounding crowns will almost certainly be noted every time someone mentions her name as well as the fact that her number is one of just a handful of retired numbers in all of Clemson athletics. Trying not to be overwhelmed or overshadowed by all the greatness that surrounds the Lady Tiger program would be hard on anyone. It would even be next to impossible for someone to come along and make just as big a name for herself as Kennedy did years earlier. Don't dare tell that to Jessica Barr though.

Barr came to Clemson in 1992 and played only two seasons for Jim Davis' Lady Tiger program. However, she wasted no time making a name for herself. In 1993-94, Barr became only the third player in Clemson history to lead the team in scoring, rebounding and field goal percentage. The only other two players to accomplish this feat are Kennedy (1982) and Shandy Bryan a year earlier than Barr, in 1993. She was also named a Kodak All-American and a Basketball-America All-American in her second and final year as a Lady Tiger in 1993-94.

Barr also became the first Lady Tiger ever to win the ACC Player-of-the-Year award for her outstanding play during the 1993-94 season in which she led the ACC with 19.8 points per game and averaged 8.5 rebounds. She was named first-team All-ACC and ACC All-Tournament. Barr received District III Kodak All-American Team honors as well.

Her awards went well beyond the NCAA and the ACC after being named the state of South Carolina's Female Amateur Athlete-of-the-Year. During her two years she was named MVP of the Hilton Head women's basketball tournaments and was voted to the UNLV Tournament All-Tournament team in 1993-94. Her 594 points rank fourth in Clemson history for most points in a single season.

While Barbara Kennedy may be the first Lady Tiger someone speaks of, Jessica Barr made sure that she wasn't the only Lady Tiger to make a name for Clemson on the national scene.

Chris Patton
Men's Golf, 1986-90

Golf is a game of talent, skill, patience and practice. It is an age old sport that has only recently started to flourish again. It is a sport though in which few people in the world play well on a consistent basis. There are the few who do make it to the PGA and of course there is some guy named Tiger who is doing fairly well. But overall it is a sport only a few can excel in. Clemson Tiger Chris Patton just happens to be one of the few.

Patton is almost certainly one of the great Clemson golfers to ever tackle the links. He was on the Tiger golf team from 1986-90, yet 10 years later he still ranks second in school history in rounds in the 60s with 30 and rounds at par or better (70). He is also the third-ranked career stroke average leader with 72.72 strokes per round.

Patton had 21 top 10 finishes, fourth best for the Tigers. His five tournament wins as a Clemson golfer are more than any other Tiger golfer in history. His win at the 1989 U.S. Amateur, makes him the only Clemson Tiger to win that event. Patton was a three-time All-American, a first-team selection as a junior and senior. He was just the second three-time All-American in Clemson history. Patton was named to the All-ACC first-team three years in a row as well. During his sophomore campaign, he had a 71.85 stroke average, still fifth best in team history. He had seven top 10 finishes in just nine tournaments during that year also. He finished his career at Clemson in 1990 by winning the Frank Howard Award.

Patton was one of the exceptions who made it to the PGA tour, getting to play in the 1990 Masters, U.S. Open and British Open by virtue of his win at the 1989 U.S. Amateur. He finished the 1990 Masters 39th, the lowest score for an amateur. He won the 1992 Australia PGA Championship and a NIKE Tour event in New Mexico in 1993. He continued to win at the 1992 Manitoba Open on the Canadian Tour and the 1991 Australia Match Play event.

James Trapp
Men's Track, 1990-92; Football, 1989-92

Most people find it hard to excel at any one sport. There just does not seem to be any way possible to become as good as the great athletes of each generation. It just takes so much practice and patience that it just seems pointless after a while. Now imagine though if someone tried to excel at two sports. Think that would be a piece of cake? Well, that is how it seemed for track & field extraordinaire and football letterman James Trapp.

Playing at the collegiate level is a hard task to accomplish. But when James Trapp stepped foot on the Clemson campus in 1989 he planned on participating in more than just one sport. It is for his excellent performances on the track though that has won him the right to join the Clemson Athletic Hall of Fame.

Trapp was a 10-time All-American as he burned up the tracks at Clemson. He won 12 ACC titles, six individual titles and six titles as part of a relay team. He was the ACC Outdoor Meet MVP in 1990 and 1992. Trapp was also the 1992 200m Indoor National Champion. In 1993, he was the U.S. and the World Champion in the 200m indoor. Trapp holds the Clemson record in the 200m indoors and is also a member of the Clemson mile relay team that holds the Clemson indoor record.

He is one of just a few Tiger Olympians, having traveled to Barcelona in 1992 to compete in the U.S. 4x100m relay team in the 1992 Olympic Games.

Trapp was a member of six conference championship teams at Clemson. Three consecutive with indoor track, two with outdoor track and one with football in 1991. He ranked in the top 20 in the world in the 100m in 1992 and in the top 10 in the U.S.

Besides all the accolades won on the track, Trapp proved he could play another sport as well. He was a four-year letterman for the Clemson football team and was a starter on the 1992 squad. Few will forget his thrilling 39-yard interception return for a touchdown against Florida State on national television (ESPN) in 1992.

He has gone from two-sport star to be one of the fastest and most successful players in the NFL. He is currently playing with the Baltimore Ravens.

Hall of Fame

Rodney Williams
Football, 1985-88

For some people Clemson football is just a game. But for others, Clemson football is more than just a game or just another sport. It is a way of life for some, including Tiger quarterback great Rodney Williams.

Williams came to the Clemson campus in 1985 and was immediately thrown into the mix making nine starts as a freshman for the Tigers. During his freshman year, he helped the Tigers win six games and earn a berth in the Independence Bowl.

In the 1986 season Williams made great strides leading Clemson to an ACC Championship and a Gator Bowl berth. He completed 8-of-11 first half passes and executed the option to a tee, leading the Tigers to a 27-0 half-time lead against Stanford. The Tigers held on to win 27-21, giving Williams his first bowl win and his first of two bowl game MVP awards.

The next season, Williams led Clemson to a 10-2 record, its second consecutive ACC title and another bowl game. The Tigers took on Penn State in the Citrus Bowl and won 35-10, still the largest victory margin in a bowl game against a Joe Paterno-coached team. Williams threw for over 200 yards and won MVP honors. As a senior, he led Clemson to another ACC Championship and a bowl game. The Tigers made their second straight trip to the Citrus Bowl and again Williams would lead the Tigers to victory (against Oklahoma).

During his four years at Clemson, Williams posted some impressive numbers and still holds the school record for games won by a quarterback (32). He set Clemson career records for most pass completions (333) and most yards passing (4,647). He also set career records for most consecutive passes thrown without interception (122), consecutive games completing a pass (46) and most games started as a quarterback (44). As a starter, he led Clemson to four straight bowl games, three straight ACC Championships and three bowl victories in a row. He is the only quarterback to ever do this.

Clemson football has continued to be part of Williams's life. He joins the Clemson Tiger Network along with Clemson Hall of Famer Jim Phillips "the Voice of the Clemson Tigers" and another Clemson Hall of Fame quarterback, Mike Epply.

Ute Jamrozy
Women's Track, 1986-88

Ute Jamrozy set the standard for not only Clemson women's track athletes, but also for all ACC women's track athletes. Nearly five years after starting competition in women's outdoor track and field, the ACC began indoor competition for women.

At the first ACC indoor meet in 1987, Ute Jamrozy became the first Lady Tiger to win an ACC women's indoor track and field title when she claimed the conference championship in the two-mile run. This was her second ACC championship, putting it with her 10,000m title from the 1986 outdoor meet.

But Jamrozy was not just known for her exploits on the track. She was also a pretty good all-terrain competitor. In 1986, she was an All-American in cross country based on her fourth-place finish at the NCAA Championship in Tucson, AZ. It is still the highest finish ever attained by a Clemson Tiger at the national meet.

Jamrozy's name is still prevalent in the school record books. She remains the Tiger record holder in the two-mile run and is also the top Tiger in the indoor 3,000m run with a time of 9:15.04. She also has the school's top mark in the 10,000m run outdoors with a time of 33:14.83. In 1987, she recorded the second-fastest time in the outdoor 3,000m, going 9:12.12. The time is currently third on the all-time list. She also ranks third in the 5,000m (16:20.91).

Sam Henson
Wrestling, 1992-94

Wrestling is first thought of as something violent something seen on cable television with men or women wearing spandex suits and body and face paint. Very rarely is it seen in the sense the first Olympians saw when they competed in Greece in the first Olympics. Collegiate wrestling is a sport of skill and practice and power as well as thinking and maneuvering. It does not involve weird nicknames or crazy hand gestures. Clemson wrestling great Sam Henson performed it as an art.

One of the most decorated athletes in Clemson history is Sam Henson. He was a two-time NCAA Champion in the 118-pound class, winning titles in 1993 and 1994, the only Clemson wrestler to win two national championships.

He won the Frank Howard Award in 1994 after posting record numbers and being named the ACC wrestling MVP. Henson had an incredible 71-0 career record on the mats at Clemson, going 34-0 in 1993 and 37-0 in 1994. He was the ACC Champion in 1993 and 1994 in the 118-pound class. Even after collegiate wrestling Henson continued to win. In 1998 he was crowned World Champion in the 119 pound category. He will be competing in Australia in the Olympics this year.

Dr. Jud Hair
Team Physician, 1957-85

Most fans do not see a lot that goes on in Clemson athletics because they are concentrated on what is going on between the sidelines. They don't see the equipment managers sort and fold and dry and clean and paint and sew. They certainly don't always see the trainers and physicians take care of the student-athletes day in and day out.

So, Clemson fans probably missed the action in a game when Hair was put on end on the sideline by a Clemson fullback running out of bounds. "We couldn't see anything but the whites of his eyes," recalled Dr. Byron Harder. "But like a pin ball machine, his pupils came back around. When he came to, he asked if anyone had gotten the license plate of the truck that had just hit him."

Hair was in charge of student health services at Clemson for 28 years (1957-85) and served as the team physician for Clemson Athletics during much of that time.

Hair, who had a laugh you could hear "all over the building," was honest and was a man of integrity," Harder said. "He taught me a lot about being honest with the kids from the start of an injury because it is a situation that is very serious to them."

And for that honesty, Hair was respected by all student-athletes and his peers, like Harder, who learned a lot—the most important lesson: to back away from the sidelines when the ball carrier or receiver is coming your way.

Tiger Band

Script Tigers has become a trademark of the Clemson University Tiger Band. Performed at all home games and bowl games to the music of Tiger Rag, it is one of the most famous band formations in college football.

By Marsha Byers
Clemson Sports Information

Today in Death Valley, the Clemson Tigers face another team of Tigers from Missouri. Clemson enters the game with a 2-1 series advantage against Missouri. Today Tommy Bowden and his team is hoping to increase the Tigers' series lead over the Missouri Tigers to 3-1.

The Clemson University Tiger Band Association (CUTBA) is offering its most recent CD — Tiger Rag! — to Clemson fans. The CD features 26 famous Tiger fan favorites from the 1997 and 1998 football seasons. It includes "Sock it To 'Em," "Tiger Rag," "Eye of the Tiger," and the Clemson University Alma Mater. Proceeds benefit the band scholarship fund as well as help finance equipment purchases and awards. The CD is available at the Tiger Band Office (119 Brooks Center) for $15.00. To order by mail, send a check (payable to: CUTBA) for $17.00 ($15.00 + $2.00 for shipping and handling) to: CUTBA c/o Clemson Tiger Band, 119 Brooks Center, Clemson, SC 29634-1505.

Today's festivities will begin with the traditional pre-game show. The first selection will be the "Orange Bowl March." As the band forms the script Tigers the band will play the Clemson favorite "Tiger Rag" and the "i" will be dotted.

Dotting the "i" today will be Mr. Joe Todd of Greenville, SC. Mr. Todd is the President of the Clemson University Alumni Association. He is married to the former Kim Hodgins of Anderson, SC. Mr. Todd and his wife have two children, a son Mac, 11, and a daughter, Neely, 8. He graduated from Clemson in 1979 with an undergraduate degree in Industrial Management. He returned to Clemson to obtain is maters also in Industrial Management in 1983. His father, Dr. B.J. Todd was a Industrial Management professor for thirty years. Dr. and Mrs. B.J. Todd still reside in Clemson today.

The Tiger Band will conclude the pre-game show with "Washington Post," "God Bless America," the "Star-spangled Banner," and the Clemson University Alma Mater. Finally, the Tiger band will prepare for "the most exciting 25 seconds in college football." Tiger Band will form a tunnel for the team to pass through as they rush down the hill after rubbing the infamous Howard's Rock. Meanwhile, the band will play the "Orange Bowl March" and "Tiger Rag."

Today, Tiger Band salutes the musical accomplishments of Grammy Award winner Carlos Santana during the half-time program. Music selections will include such favorites as "Everybody's Everything," "Smooth," "Evil Ways" and "Black Magic Woman."

Dr. Mark Hosler directs the Tiger Band. He is assisted by Paul Buyer (Percussion Instructor), Cheryl Hosler (Flag Line/Twirlers Instructor), and Tim Willis (Announcer).

Where the Blue Ridge yawn its greatness
Where the Tigers play
Here the sons of dear old Clemson Reign Supreme away.

Chorus

Dear old Clemson, we will triumph
And with all our might
That the Tiger roar may echo
O'er the mountain height.

Dale Davis

By Tim Bourret
Sports Information Director

Dale Davis attacked everything he did in life during his four years at Clemson with a purpose and vengeance. Apparently he still leads his life with the same vigor today.

Whether it is challenging the opposition in pursuit of a rebound, a power dunk to the basket or playing defense against the best players in the ACC, Dale Davis put everything he had into every play.

That same intensity carried over into his life off the court. In the classroom, he graduated in four years with his original class. Despite the incredible time demands involved in playing major college basketball, he didn't even need an extra summer session to receive that diploma, something that made his mother smile on that graduation day in 1991.

Dale Davis will be the first men's basketball player inducted into the Clemson Ring of Honor today. We normally would bestow this honor on Davis at a basketball game, but his schedule is still very hectic. He is still playing at a high level, about to begin his 10th year in the NBA. This is really the only time we can properly honor "The Toccoa Tiger".

I have many memories of Davis. At the end of his first home game as a Tiger, in 1987 against Baptist, you certainly would not have thought Dale Davis would ever be inducted into the Clemson Hall of Fame, never mind the Ring of Honor.

Davis could not make a layup. It was hard to watch. A great rebounder (probably from birth), he had trouble scoring. He shot 3-10 that day and the three he made were dunks. That frustrating afternoon made him work harder. Today it is incredible to look at the list of Clemson's career scoring leaders and see him ranked sixth on the all-time list. To see him hit 10-12 foot jump shots in the NBA is a testimony to his work ethic and dedication.

Including all football players, Davis is the toughest athlete I have seen in my years at Clemson. During the 1989-90 season, he was a first-team All-ACC performer, joining forces with Elden Campbell (honored by his induction into the Clemson Hall of Fame today) to lead Clemson to its only ACC regular season championship in history.

That entire season, Davis played with a stress fracture in one of his feet. This is basketball, constant pounding up and down the court. He never missed a game, playing 35, 34 as a starter. He averaged 15.3 points and 11.3 rebounds per game, one of just two Tigers (Sharone Wright the other), to average a double-double over the course of a season in the 1990s. His senior year Clemson was playing UNC-Charlotte in Littlejohn Coliseum. It was a fast paced game, in fact, it would conclude with both teams scoring more than 100 points, the only game in Littlejohn Coliseum history in which that has happened.

In the first half, Davis went up for a rebound and came down awkwardly, falling to the floor in pain. Doctors and trainers raced to the floor, seeing that he had dislocated a shoulder. Dr. Stewart Clarkson reset the shoulder on the floor, but the pain was intense.

Davis was taken to the locker room and his shoulder was put in a sling. With Davis in the locker room, a young Clemson team fell behind. Davis came back to the bench in full uniform, but the sling was still attached.

"I was at a wedding and received a message that

Dale had been hurt and that I needed to go to Littlejohn Coliseum," said Dr. Larry Bowman, Clemson's orthopedic surgeon. "I went into the coliseum and the game was going on. I went right to the bench and met with Dr. Clarkson. He told me what happened and we talked about what his rehab would be and how long he would be out of action.

"I then asked Dr. Clarkson, 'Where is he?' 'Right here on the bench,' was his reply. I couldn't find him, then all of a sudden we looked up and he was in the game. Seeing we were in desperate times without him, Dale had taken off the sling, told Coach (Cliff) Ellis he was fine and went back in.

"That was incredible. He never missed a game that year. When you think about the pain he was in playing with a stress fracture as a junior and that dislocated shoulder as a senior, it was amazing."

Davis finished his career as a three-time All-ACC player and an honorable mention All-American. He led the ACC in field goal percentage and rebounding consecutive years, the only ACC player to do that until 1995. He was a first-round draft pick of the Indiana Pacers in 1991.

This dedication and work ethic has carried over to his professional career. He is one of the most respected players in the NBA. He won't sink three-point goals, or make shake-and-bake moves like his former teammate Reggie Miller, but he will go head to head with Shaq or Tim Duncan every night if that is what is required to win.

This past season he was chosen to the NBA All-Star team. His consistency in rebounding and field goal percentage helped the Pacers to the NBA World Championship where they forced the Los Angeles Lakers to a sixth game.

He enters his 10th season as the Pacers all-time leading rebounder and leader in field goal percentage. He is annually among the league leaders in both categories. Just as he is at Clemson, he was one of the most popular Pacers in the basketball crazy state of Indiana. On September 1, he was traded to Portland.

Davis has been active in community service activities in Indiana and back in his hometown of Toccoa, GA. He has established the Dale Davis Foundation, which benefits economically at risk and disadvantaged youth in Indianapolis and Toccoa.

And, he hasn't forgotten his Clemson roots. A member of IPTAY, Davis returns to Clemson whenever possible. A memorable moment took place during the 1996-97 season when he was presented his Clemson Hall of Fame plaque at halftime of the Clemson vs. Virginia game by fellow Clemson great Tree Rollins. The presentation brought a standing ovation.

He will get another one today.

Davis earned his degree from Clemson in four years.

Barbara Kennedy-Dixon

By Sam Blackman
Associate Sports Information Dir.

It's only fitting that Barbara Kennedy-Dixon will be the first women's basketball player inducted into the Ring of Honor. She has set a standard for all Lady Tigers on and off the court that gives all future Lady Tigers a model of excellence, one that will be difficult to attain.

And to think she didn't even come to Clemson on a basketball scholarship!

Eighteen years after she played her last game for the Lady Tigers she still holds the school's and the Atlantic Coast Conference's career record for most points scored (3,113) and most rebounds (1,252)-records that will probably never be broken.

She was a two-time All-American in 1981 and 1982 and three-time first-team All-ACC player in 1980, 1981 and 1982. She is the only two-time All-American and three-time first-team All-ACC selection in Clemson history.

At the ACC Tournament, she was named MVP in 1981 and 1982. She is the only player to earn this award and not be on the championship team.

Kennedy-Dixon is still the NCAA record holder for most field goals in a season with 392 in 1981-82. Her 908 point season of 1981-82 is still tied for sixth best in NCAA history and her 29.3 scoring average that same year is still 12th best in NCAA history.

Kennedy-Dixon is the ACC and Clemson's all-time career leader for most field goals (1,349) and field goal attempts (2,688). She also holds ACC and Clemson single season records for most points (908), points per game (29.3), most field goals (392), field goals attempts (760), rebounds (400) and most rebounds per game (12.9).

The native of Rome, GA led the nation in scoring in 1981-82 with an average of 29.3 points per game. For her career, she accumulated ninety-three 20-point games, twenty-eight 30-point games, and six 40-point games. Kennedy-Dixon also holds the distinction of having scored the first points in the inaugural NCAA Tournament.

Currently, Kennedy-Dixon is an assistant athletic director in charge of women's basketball operations at Clemson University. She is in the Clemson and the state of South Carolina's Athletic Halls of Fame.

Kennedy-Dixon had a modest beginning in basketball and believe it or not she was not heavily recruited. In fact, she didn't even come to Clemson on a basketball scholarship. The story really is similar to another Clemson Ring of Honor inductee, Fred Cone. Cone got a scholarship to Frank Howard's football program sight unseen. Howard's sister recommended Cone to Howard because she had seen him dive off a diving board into a neighbor's pool and he looked athletic doing it.

Here is how Kennedy-Dixon came to Clemson.

"In the sixth grade I tried out for cheerleading, a squad that was going to cheer for the junior varsity basketball team. From that point on I fell in love with the game of basketball. The guys made it interesting.

"After cheering that one season, I decided to try out for the girls junior varsity team and I made it my first year. I really did not know what to do and I made a lot of mistakes that first year. I also played pickup basketball games with other guys and this is what helped improve my game.

"Playing basketball in college was a goal for me, but it was a goal I did not think I could reach. I did not know how that process worked. I did not know if I wanted to leave home or not. As I finished my junior year and received some praise from opposing coaches, I got interested. Different coaches would tell me to concentrate on the books and well as my game.

"My senior year I started realizing there may be an opportunity. I started concentrating on my studies and working on my basketball skills. I thought I made some progress as I started getting some contacts from college coaches. My first contact was from Coach Annie Tribble (Head Women's Basketball Coach at Clemson 1976-87) and that told me there was a chance for me to compete at the next level.

"I remember my first phone call from Coach Tribble and how pleasant she was, how complimentary she was and how encouraging she was. She continued to show interest. She was very much like my mom in that she had a caring and loving personality. She conveyed that on the telephone.

"I remember when she came for a visit at one of our games. I tried so hard — maybe too hard. It was a disaster and she started backing off at one point. I was trying to prove to her that I could play.

"I was waiting for her phone calls. She called me one day and told me she used all her scholarships. She also told me if I made the test scores and wanted to come she would bring me in on a volleyball scholarship. I took the SAT and made the required score. I told Coach Tribble I made the test scores and here I come! So I originally came to Clemson on a volleyball scholarship."

Clemson is certainly glad she took that volleyball scholarship. She was named Clemson's top athlete of the 1980s and has continued to serve Clemson with distinction as an assistant coach, as an administrator in Vickery Hall and in the Compliance Office, and now back with Lady Tiger basketball as an assistant athletic director.

Barbara Kennedy-Dixon has served Clemson in many capacities since her graduation.

Barbara Kennedy-Dixon came to Clemson on a volleyball scholarship. She finished her career as the ACC's only 3,000-point scorer.

Women's Soccer

By Sam Blackman
Associate Sports Information Dir.

The 2000 Clemson women's soccer team will be very competitive with a cast of seasoned veterans and an excellent group of newcomers vying for the starting positions. Clemson returns nine starters from a team that finished 14-7-2 overall, and 4-3 in the Atlantic Coast Conference. The Lady Tigers also finished sixth in the NSCAA Coaches' poll and advanced to the NCAA Final Eight. The #6 finish last year was the best in Clemson's brief but noteworthy history.

"This will be the deepest team we have ever had," said Clemson Head Coach Ray Leone. "The first task we must accomplish right away is connecting the freshmen to the rest of the team. This team is very close, and if we can establish a solid relationship between the freshmen and the rest of the team in the preseason, we should have a great season."

"It is always hard to set goals, but obviously, we want to go to the NCAA Final Four and win the ACC. The ACC is the hardest league in the country. First and foremost we want to be the best we possibly can and this is something we can control with hard work and dedication."

"I think this year we will be more competitive in practice and this will benefit us more. We are still building the program and competition is what makes players better. Being a returning starter at Clemson will be harder this season because the newcomers will push the older players. The team will practice at a higher level of competition. Last spring was the best we have had as far as intensity and commitment."

"The strong points this season will be on defense. Defending is a strong area of pride for our team. They take great pride in shutting people down. I also think we are going to be more potent offensively than the previous year. However, our lack of offense has a lot had to do with the injuries we sustained last year. We only scored one goal in the NCAA Women's Soccer Tournament and advanced to the NCAA Final Eight. This was a credit to our defense."

"We are very proud of Tracey (Leone) for being the head coach of the United States U16 National Team and assisting with the entire National Team program. This is a great opportunity for Tracey. She is on a leave of absence from Clemson and will return when her stint is up with them. It is wonderful that she was recognized because of her success at Clemson. Tracey is a great developer of talent, something she has proven since her arrival at Clemson."

"Our schedule will again be very tough—very similar to last year when it was ranked second toughest in the nation. A total of 13 of the 18 schools we play went to the NCAA Women's Deliah Arrington, a second generation Clemson student-athlete, is the top returning goal scorer from 1999.

Soccer Tournament or were ranked in the last two years. It will be another killer schedule but we like to compete against the best."

GOALKEEPERS

Clemson will be very solid in goal with the return of junior and two-year starter Katie Carson. Freshman Leigh Ann Harrison will be joining Carson this fall.

Carson finished the season with a 0.74 goal allowed average. She also had 109 saves, and had two games last season when she had 16 saves in each game. She started all 23 games and her save total was a school record.

"Carson is the most improved player on our team. She is still improving and she still hasn't reached her full potential. She is a fantastic presence in the box. Her punting, passing, and foot skills have improved tremendously. Katie has great range and she is not afraid to come out of the box. She is very aggressive. Her command in the box in the air is her biggest asset."

Leigh Ann Harrison is from Mauldin (SC) High School where she was an all-state goalkeeper. "Leigh Ann is very tall and has a good presence for a young keeper. I think she will develop quickly into a high level collegiate goalkeeper."

DEFENDERS

Clemson's defense should be one of the strong points on the 2000 squad. Led by senior sisters, Julie and Nancy Augustyniak, the defense should be the best ever for the Lady Tigers.

"Nancy and Julie are two of the best backs in the nation," said Leone. "Nancy will anchor the center of the defense, while Julie usually plays on the left side. Both players have great composure and their athleticism is incredible."

Nancy started all 23 games last season and had two goals and two assists. Julie also started all 23 games and had one goal and two assists. Audria Lyons started all 23 games mostly in the back and she finished the season with one goal and three assists. Leigh Clark is another starting defender returning. Clark started 22 matches and had one goal and two assists.

MIDFIELDERS

Lea Shreve and Clark are the two returnees in the midfield. Shreve started 21 games and finished the season with three goals and one assist for seven points. Shreve played in the center midfield but was hurt in the spring. She should be able to comeback full strength and anchor the center midfield according to Leone. Clark may see action in the midfield this season if not needed as a back.

"In the midfield, we recruited wing midfielders. And with our incoming players and the depth we have coming back, will provide more competition within the team. Besides Clark, Julie Augustyniak may play some in the midfield."

Other veterans returning include Tricia Williams, Tatum Clowney, Cindy Mullinix and Lyons, who have all played in the midfield.

The Lady Tigers had an outstanding year recruiting, as freshmen Jami Walker, Allison Mitchell, and Kate Clifton join the Lady Tigers in the midfield.

"This will be a tough area for us as every position is wide open. However, when the season opens, I think this will be a strong suit for us with the competition and depth."

FORWARDS

Clemson returns Deliah Arrington and Heather Beem this season after both players had excellent freshmen seasons. Arrington led the 1999 team with nine goals and seven assists for 25 points. She started 15 games and also led the squad with the nine goals.

Beem, who started all 23 games, was third on the squad with 21 points and she had seven assists and seven goals. However, Beem is the big question as she had an ACL injury in the spring and will be brought along slowly until she is 100 percent.

Clemson's newcomer Lindsay Browne was a 1999 NSCAA High School All-American. "Lindsay is one of the best forwards on the West Coast. She should provide a lot of fire power to our already exciting frontline players."

Men's Track

By Anne Miller
Asst. Sports Information Director

The Clemson men's track and field program enjoyed another banner year as the Tigers began the track and field season claiming the ACC title and a tenth-place finish at the NCAA Indoor Championships. They continued their dominance in the outdoor season, winning the 2000 ACC outdoor crown and ending the season tenth in the nation. The Tigers had 17 different athletes named to the All-ACC teams, won three individual championships at the ACC indoor meet, and then claimed eight individual championships at the ACC outdoor meet. At the NCAA Championships, the Tigers claimed three individual national titles and an American record. Clemson will also send five Tigers to the Olympic Games in Sydney, Australia.

Bob Pollock, the Tiger's head coach since 1988, has been named ACC Coach of the Year 17 times, more than any other coach in Clemson history. Pollock, along with second-year assistant coaches Charles Foster and Jarrett Foster are looking to continue their ACC dominance and national competitiveness.

"We have a lot of youth on this team, but we also have some very experienced, seasoned veterans," said Pollock. "I am excited about what our returning athletes accomplished last year and I am looking forward to seeing what our new Tigers can accomplish. Our team will build on the success at the ACC's and continue to be top contenders at the national level."

Cross Country/Distance

The nucleus of this year's cross country team will be comprised of three top returnees from last year's team that finished fifth in the ACC and eighth in the Southeast region. Leading the squad will be sophomore Jason Meany, who finished ninth at the 1999 ACC Championships, earning All-ACC honors. Fellow sophomore Scott Shaw should also figure in as a top-three runner after consistently finishing in the top five last year. Junior B.J. Dillard returns as the most experienced team member. He had one of his best outings of the year at the Southeast Regional, finishing 54th in 31:56 over the challenging 10,000m course. Sophomore Mike Connelly will contend for a top position on the team. Newcomers — David Adams, Derrick Wyatt, Joe Harris, Ryan Fenton, Mike Barton and Nick Luden — will challenge the returning runners.

"This is a young squad that should be fun to work with," Pollock said. "I am excited about our team as they will be a surprise before the season's end. No one will expect much from us because of our youth. It will be up to the team to decide to step up and control their own destiny."

The indoor and outdoor distance events will be led by Meany who earned All-ACC honors in the 10,000m and qualified for the NCAA Championships in the 5,000m last year. The Tigers will be young but talented as Adams enters Clemson having run one of the top times in the nation at 3,200m (8:57). Shaw will add quality along with three state champion freshmen in Fenton, Harris and Luden.

Middle Distance

Youth will also be the theme in the middle distance events. Juniors Mike Connelly and Fred Sharpe along with sophomore Marcus Hodge are expected to lead the Tigers in the middle distance events. "These guys should be our leaders this year. They have experience and a good deal of potential," Pollock said. Sharpe was the 800m indoor champion last year while

After competing for Trinidad in the Olympics, Ato Modibo will return to defend his NCAA indoor 400m title.

Connelly finished third in the 800m at the ACC indoor and outdoor championships. Hodge consistently finished in the top three for Clemson in the 800m. Sophomore Garrick Copes ran a personal best of 1:53 last year, and will compete in the 400m and 800m again this year. Clemson will have several talented newcomers in Wyatt, Barton and Joel Thiry, in the middle distances.

Sprints

The Tigers lost two of their most decorated athletes ever in Shawn Crawford and Charles Allen, but are looking to a talented group of returnees and some outstanding freshmen to fill those voids. Crawford was an 11-time All-American and the most decorated athlete in Clemson history and the American indoor record holder at 200m. Allen is a five-time All-American who will compete in the 110m hurdles at the Olympic Games.

Pollock thinks the talent of the incoming freshmen combined with the experience of the upperclassmen will produce a great quality team with depth from top to bottom. Junior four-time All-American Ato Modibo will lead the veterans. Modibo, the NCAA indoor 400m champion will compete in both of those events at the Olympic Games.

Joining Modibo is a trio of sophomores in David Collins, Otto Spain, and Jacey Harper. Spain, who qualified in the 400m and is a member of the 4x400m relay team for the USA Junior National team, will compete in Santiago, Chile, in October. Collins finished second at the ACC's as a freshman and qualified for the NCAA Championships in the 60m dash. Harper was All-ACC in the outdoor 100m and a member of the ACC champion 4x100m relay team, and will participate in the Olympics in the 4x100m relay.

Pollock is looking for freshmen Roland Burks, Terrance Huey and Dwight Thomas to step in and contribute in the team's success. Thomas, from Burtonsville, MD, was the most highly recruited sprinter, as he led the nation in the 100m and 200m in high school. He was the 1999 Pan American Junior champion in the 100 and 200m, and is a member of Jamaica's 2000 Olympic team. Burks was an all-state selection and has posted competitive times in the 60m dash, 100m, and 200m events. Huey was a Georgia state track champion in the 100m and 200m dashes.

Hurdles

Senior ACC Champion and All-American Sultan Tucker returns in the 60m and 110m hurdles to lead a strong group of performers. Tucker won the ACC in the 60m hurdles, tying the ACC record with a time of 7.79, and was All-ACC in the 110m after finishing second in the ACC outdoor meet. Pollock also expects junior All-American Todd Matthews to continue his success after winning the ACC Championship in the 110m hurdles outdoor and earning All-American honors at the outdoor NCAA Championships.

Fred Sharpe was the ACC champion in the 800m indoors and in the 400m hurdles outdoors. He qualified for the NCAA Championships and earned All-American honors in the 400m hurdles as a sophomore. Senior Tony Washington and freshman transfer Ryan Davis will add depth to the Tigers in the hurdles.

Jumps

The Tigers expect to have consistently strong showings in the jumps with the return of their leaders from last year. Junior Doug Ameigh will once again be at the core of the high jumpers. The ACC champion and NCAA indoor qualifier has shown great consistency in the last two years.

Sophomore Malcolm Reynolds claimed the ACC outdoor championship and placed third at the USA Junior Nationals this summer. Reynolds recorded the best jump in the ACC last year.

Junior Kai Maull will be Clemson's mainstay in the long jump and triple jump after garnering All-American honors as a freshman and All-ACC honors last year.

Lloyd, who earned ACC honors in the triple jump, is a solid utility type jumper for the Tigers, and is expected to post high numbers for Clemson. Matthews along with freshmen Brit Barrow and Huey will provide quality and depth for the Tigers.

Ryan Lewis and Ben Hess will lead the Tigers in the pole vault. Lewis was the outdoor ACC champion, while Hess is also a top contender in the ACC.

Throws

Senior Andy Giesler leads the list of throwers for Clemson this year as he will compete in the shot put while Brett Varner returns after a solid freshman campaign in the hammer event.

Redshirts David Schenek and Matt Lombardi will add depth in the discus and shot put respectively, as will freshman Colton Hodge, the brother of Marcus Hodge. Schenek earned All-American honors at the USA Junior National meet in the hammer throw. Both Schenek and Colton Hodge were invited as top throwers in the country to the USA Olympic Throws Clinic in San Diego, CA.

Multi-events

Giesler will be the top decathlete for the Tigers after winning the ACC outdoor decathlon, having a personal best of 7,348 points, and garnering All-ACC honors last year. "Andy had a good year last year having competed at the NCAA Championships and we are looking forward to watching him build on that success," Pollock said. Davis and fellow freshman Chris Sandbach and redshirt freshman Rick Hill will provide depth in the decathlon.

The Last Word

By Tim Bourret
Sports Information Director

Ever since I first met Levon Kirkland when he was a first-year freshman in 1987, he has continually done things that have made you stand up and take notice.

Kirkland came to Clemson without a lengthy resume of accomplishments from Lamar High School in Lamar, SC. Because he played at a school that was in a small classification, he did not get the attention in the state that he deserved, never mind any high school All-America attention. He was never named to an all-state team and was not a Shrine Bowl selection.

That all changed when he got to Clemson. After red-shirting his freshman year, he became an instant starter. He went from virtual obscurity to ranking fifth on the Clemson team in tackles in 1988, a team that finished 10-2 with a victory over Oklahoma in the Citrus Bowl.

I still remember the performance he had at Maryland that year. In a game Clemson needed to win the ACC Championship, Kirkland had 13 tackles, three tackles for loss and had a 22-yard interception return, leading Clemson to victory.

In 1989 everyone continued to take notice of Kirkland's performances. He finished his sophomore season as a first-team All-ACC performer, highlighted by his MVP performance in the Gator Bowl victory over West Virginia. He harassed All-America quarterback Major Harris all evening. That Gator Bowl performance made the country stand up and take notice of Kirkland.

In 1990, Captain Kirk was named one of five finalists for the Butkus Award, the honor presented to the top linebacker in the nation. He was named an All-American, a big reason Clemson finished 10-2 behind a defense that ranked number-one in the nation, the first Tiger team in history to do that. His senior year, 1991, he was named a semifinalist for the Lombardi Award and again was first-team All-ACC and an All-American. Kirkland played 48 straight games for Clemson, a linebacker record 43 as a starter.

But, just like he had to do when he came to Clemson, he still had to prove himself at the next level. There were questions about where he could play on defense in the NFL because many thought he was an in-between size.

The Pittsburgh Steelers made Kirkland a second-round pick in the 1992 draft. Eight years later everyone assumes he must have been a first-round pick, just as they assume he must have been a high school All-American when he entered Clemson.

He became a starter with the Steelers in 1993 and has started all but four games in the last seven years. He has had at least 100 tackles in six of those seven years, leading the team in tackles three of the last four years.

His performance against Dallas in Super Bowl XXX made the pro football community stand up and take notice of his play. He had 16 tackles and personally was responsible for Emmitt Smith gaining only 49 yards in 18 carries. Had it not been for some mistakes by Pittsburgh quarterback Neil O'Donnell (who Kirkland had tormented as a freshman for Clemson against Maryland in that 1988 game I referred to earlier) Kirkland might have been MVP of that Super Bowl.

In 1997 and 1998 he was chosen to the Pro Bowl and made All-Pro. The Steeler organization has certainly noticed his performance, as Kirkland is now the highest paid linebacker in the NFL.

Ironically, one of the reasons Levon Kirkland is one of my favorite players since I have been at Clemson (22 years), is his down to earth nature. He doesn't try to do things that make him noticed by the public, the media or his teammates.

A look to his childhood reveals the reason for his level headed nature. He is the product of a two-parent home, the seventh of eight children. It is a close family, one Kirkland still stays with much of the off-season. Yes, the highest paid linebacker in the NFL still sleeps in the bed he grew up in, a fact a 1998 Sports Illustrated article made in one of the most adoring profiles in the history of the magazine.

When Kirkland was at Clemson, he was an interview machine. Not because he craved the limelight, he was the opposite of a Deion Sanders, who played at Florida State in that era. He did the interviews because he knew it was part of his responsibility as a team leader.

When Clemson played in a bowl game, our office could always depend on Kirkland for live interviews. All the local stations come to the bowl site for special live interviews on their news programs. We scheduled Levon for "Live Shots" every night, not only because he was a good interview, but also because we could depend on him. Even on New Year's Eve if we asked him to be in the lobby at 6:21pm, he would be there.

Today, between the first and second quarters, Kirkland will again do something that will make us stand up and take notice. He is presenting the "Call Me Mister" Program with a significant contribution. "Call Me Mister" is a program coordinated by former Clemson All-American and National Championship team captain Jeff Davis that recruits African-American men to study to become secondary education teachers.

The program funds scholarships for these men at Clemson and other historically black colleges in the state. More than 50 of the young men who benefit from the program are scheduled to be in attendance today and will stand up to recognize Kirkland's contribution during the presentation.

Standing up and recognizing Levon Kirkland for his contributions to Clemson and the way he represents this University on a daily basis might be an appropriate response for everyone in attendance.

Levon Kirkland

Levon Kirkland enhanced Clemson's linebacker reputation in the 1990s, a reputation that was founded by Jeff Davis from 1978-81. Now they are combining to make a major impact on the "Call Me Mister Program."

M.D. Clayton, General Manager Precision Weaving, Inc.

When Precision Weaving, Inc., a division of the Marmon Group of Chicago decided to build a new 80,000 sq. ft. manufacturing plant in South Carolina, they chose Yeargin Construction, Inc. to manage their design and construction.

Yeargin's design/build experience, client-focused win-win attitude, and cost effective approach to the job were deciding factors.

The fast-track partnering effort between all the team members resulted in a first-class facility for Precision Weaving, Inc., built on schedule and within budget. A true win-win relationship for all.
